SOVIET ARMY AWAITS MOVE OF JAPANESE

RUSSIA IS WARNED TO CURB CRUISES OF GUNBOATS

Hsinking, Manchoukou, July 2 (Friday) (AP)—The Japanese army charged today Russia had repeated her invasion of Manchoukuoan territory.

Authorities at this capital of the Japanese-inspired state immediately began discussion of forcible means to cope with the situation.

The Japanese army charged three Soviet airplanes circled low over Sunnufu island, disputed sandspit on the Amur river boundary between Manchoukuo and Siberia, Thursaday afternoon and disappeared in an unknown direction.

Tokyo, July 2 (Friday) (AP)—The Manchoukuo government was reported in a dispatch from Hsingking today to have served a peremptory warning on Russia to keep to the main navigation route on the Amur river or risk "drastic measures."

The warning said:

"If your country's gunboats deviate from the main navigation route of the Amur river in the neighborhood of Sennufu, Bolshoi and Shatzukoukuo islands and operate on the waterway belonging to Manchoukuo, we shall be compelled to resort to drastic measures of self-defense."

Japanese Ambassador Mamoru Shigemitsu in a dispatch from Moscow to his government reported that Mixim Litvinoff, Russian commissar for foreign affairs, refused to recignize Japan's protest against Wednesday's battle on the Siberian-Manchoukuoan frontier and insisted Japanese-Manchoukuoan forces were responsible.

On Disputed Islands

(The Russian government early Friday announced it would withdraw its armed forces from the disputed Amur river islands if Japan agreed to do likewise.)

The newspaper Nichi Nichi reported from Tsitsihar that formidable forces of Russians and Japanese and Manchoukuoans faced each other across the Amur.

It said a Russian gunboat squadron continued to cruise on the river and Russian troops occupied the disputed islands.

Reports from Harbin charged that two Russian gunboats trained their guns menacingly on the Manchoukuo vessel Shanghai Maru, first steamer to navigate in Amur after Wednesday's incident.

Japanese officials reported there were 37 casualties in the shelling of three Russian gunboaats Wednesday.

(In Moscow it was reported two men were killed and three wounded aboard one gunboat.)

RAISING WAR CHEST

Moscow, July 2 (Friday) (AP)—The Soviet government announced early today it would withdraw its armed forces from the disputed Amur river islands, scene of a Russo-Japanese clash, if Japan agrees to do likewise.

The annoucement, made in a foreign office communique, declared Soviet Russia claims indemnification for the Russian losses in the fight which created a situation de-

Miss Earhart Postpones Her Hazardous Hop

Sydney, Australia, July 2 (AP)—Amelia Earhart today postponed the start of her trans-Pacific flight from Lae, New Guinea, because of a break in her plane's fuel line and static which interfered with radio signals.

Word received here from Lae said the aviatrix probably would leave later in the day for Howland Island, 2,570 miles away, on the longest and most dangerous jump of her attempted globe-circling journey.

In recent months the interior department fashioned runways on the islet, which stands only a few feet above sea level and is only one-half mile wide and two miles long. Miss Earhart depended upon her navigator, Fred J. Noonan, to point the way for her $80,000 plane.

Half way between New Guinea and Howland lay the navy tug Ontario to communicate with Miss Earhart by wireless or go to her aid if necessary.

The coast guard cutter Itaca stood by at Howland Island to facilitate her arrival there and her scheduled departure later for Honolulu, 1,532 miles to the northeast.

HIGHWAY CHIEF ON NEW TERM

VanWagoner and Elliott Take Oaths; Praised by Governor

Lansing, July 1 (AP)—Re-elected heads of the state highway department and the state department of public instruction were inaugurated for new terms today.

In a crowded house of representatives chamber Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagoner, Democrat, and Superintendent of Public instruction Eugene B. Elliott, Republican, took the oath of office. Governor Murphy praised the records of both officials and declared it was a good sign when deserving members of different parties were rewarded.

The oaths were administred in the house of representatives chamber, by Justices Howard Wiest and Bert D. Chandler. Van Wagoner declared the state will go forward with a sound, pay-as-you-go road building program and will continue its maintenance policies but added that limited funds will prevent spectacular building operations. He said the state will absorb all maintenance as rapidly as possible, discontinuing contracts with counties for the work.

Elliott said his department, in the next two years, will endeavor to place Michigan in the top flight of states, educationally. Both said politics will have no place in the administration of their departments.

SENATE TAKES UP SUBSTITUTE COURT CHANGE

ROOSEVELT PLAN OPPONENTS SEE VICTORY

Washington, July 1 (AP)—Administration senators announced they will introduce tomorrow a complete substitute for the Roosevelt court bill, revising the provisions of the original measure with relation to the lower courts as well as the supreme court.

Foes of the president's bill immediately called conferences to revise their strategy because of the new battleground on which the struggle will be staged.

The opposition senators hailed the introduction of an administration substitute as a victory. They said it meant the public abandonment of the Roosevelt bill, against which they have waged a five-month fight.

One Justice A Year

No formal announcement of the terms of the administration compromise was made. But senators who have participated in drafting it, said it was modeled after the Hatch-Logan amendment to permit appointment of one additional justice a year to the supreme court.

The president would have authority to appoint a new justice for each incumbent serving past 75 years of age, but only at the rate of one a year. At present there are four members of the court past 75.

The original Roosevelt bill provided for immediate appointment of a new justice for each one serving past 70 years of age. At the time it was offered it would have meant six new justices if none then on the court retired.

Under the original bill any increase in the court's size would be permanent, but the compromise provides that the court shall drop back to nine justices when the older ones retire.

Ready Today

Instead of authorizing appointment of 50 new lower court judges, the substitute would fix the maximum at 20, and make the increase temporary, instead of permanent, legislators said.

A major addition to the substitute proposal, they added, will be a section providing for speedy appeal to the supreme court of lower court decisions involving the constitutionality of federal laws.

Such a change was proposed by President Roosevelt in his message to congress February 5, but the bill he sent along with it contained no such provision.

Democratic leader Robinson, of Arkansas, said the new bill would be ready for introduction tomorrow.

Woman Pays $200 In Capital Under White Slave Act

Washington, July 1. (AP)—Sixty-three-year old Mae (Mommy) Walsh paid a $200 fine for violation of the white slave act.

She pleaded guilty in federal district court here and was sentenced to one to three years by Justice Peyton Gordon.

The justice suspended execution of the sentence and freed the woman upon payment of the fine.

The indictment charged her with transporting girls to Washington from Dayton, O., and Buffalo, N. Y.

Detroit. (AP)—Giles Kavanagh, collector of internal revenue, said Thursday that collections in Michigan for the fiscal year ending June 30 were the highest on record, $287,263,066.53. Income taxes and excise receipts accounted largely for the increase, he explained.

Giant Air Maneuvers Scheduled In Alaska

San Diego, Calif., July 1 (AP)—Trim navy air cruisers droned northward tonight for the fleet's greatest maneuvers in the arctic skies.

Six patrol squadrons, newest sky weapons of the United States fleet, were under orders for the extensive maneuvers over Alaska and the Aleutians.

Three squadrons, comprising 24 of the giant patrols, left the naval air station here today on a non-stop flight to Puget Sound. Their mother ship, the old aircraft carrier Langley, is awaiting them there.

Five heavy cruisers of the United States fleet scouting force will operate with the sky patrols. These for the Northampton, Salt Lake City, Pensacola, Chicago and Louisville. They will leave their holiday ports in the Puget Sound July 6.

Among the ports to be visited by the heavy cruisers during the Alaskan maneuvers are Sitka, Wrangell, Ketchikan, Aukie Bay, Cordova, Valdez.

The heavy cruisers will remain in Alaskan waters until July 18. The carrier Langley, and the tender Sandpiper will remain until July 22.

Clipper Plane To Survey Route Crossing Atlantic

New York, July 1. (AP)—A 31-year-old native of Iowa, Capt. Harold E. Gray, was named commander tonight of the first survey flight of a Pan American Clipper plane across the Atlantic ocean, to be started Saturday from Port Washington, Long Island.

Capt. Gray, veteran of Pan American's Pacific service, and commander of survey flights which preceded opening of regular service between New York and Bermuda, will share the 22 3-4 ton Sikorsky flying boat with six other crewmen.

They are First Officer William S. DeLima, with nine trans-Pacific flights to his credit; Second Officer William H. Masland, who has made eight round trip flights to the Orient; Engineering Officer C. D. Wright; Radio Officer Thomas J. Roberts; Assistant Engineering Officer E. Walter Smith and Ship's Clerk William Thaler.

Pan American officials said the "Pan American Clipper" would leave its Port Washington base early Saturday for the Imperial Airways base at Botwood, Newfoundland, 1,072 miles from New York.

The take-off from Ganders lake at Botwood for the Atlantic flight to Foynes, the Irish trans-Atlantic base at the mouth of the River Shannon has been set for 1:30 (E.S.T.) Monday.

At approximately the same hour a four-engined Empire flying boat of Imperial Airways will leave the Irish coast on its first westward survey flight to Newfoundland, from where it will continue down the coast to New York.

The Pan American Clipper is expected to make the Atlantic crossing in about 15 hours and to remain at Foynes for a day before proceeding to Southampton, the marine airport for London. The American Clipper will remain in England four or five days before starting its return journey.

Officials of the American and English Airways, operating jointly over the Atlantic, said no passengers, mail, or other cargo would be carried until final selection is made of the most feasible route or routes for commercial operation.

JULY 1 MIXES HOT AND COLD

Spread of Black Rust and Drouth Sends Wheat Prices Up

Chicago, July 1 (AP)—Sharply contrasting conditions, marked by midsummer heat in some sections and the chill of autumn in others, mottled the nation's weather map today.

Fort Wayne, Ind., reported a record low for the date, a minimum of 48 degrees. San Diego, Calif., experienced its warmest July 1 with a reading of 83. A torrid top of 112 was registered at Yuma, Arizona.

Two abnormal factors, hot and dry drought weather in western Canada and the spread of black rust in the United States, prompted traders on the Chicago Board of Trade to bid up wheat prices the allowable limits.

Wheat futures here closed 4⅞ to 7⅝ above yesterday's finish while corn advanced 2⅞ to 3½ cents under the impetus of alarm over the threats to the crops.

The freak spell was eptiomized by 95-100 degree temperatures in Kansas and subnormal temperatures scaling down to 49 at Arcadia in neighboring Missouri.

Generally fair weather was expected to bring higher readings in the eastern portion of the midwest.

Parsons, the missing woman's husband, Mrs. Anna Kupryanova, her guest-companion, the latter's young son, Roy, and Frank McDonell, Mrs. Parsons' brother.

The subject of the discussion was not disclosed.

Aerial Romeo And Michigan Co-ed Wedded

Detroit, July 1 (AP)—A former University of Michigan co-ed and the flying Romeo whose aerial stunting over her dormitory brought Shakespeare's balcony scene up to date were honeymooning tonight—in a seaplane.

When business kept Bernard DeWeese, Jr., from an orthodox "date" with his sweetheart, Miss Alice Bryce, a senior who graduated in June, he jumped into his plane in Detroit, telephoned her Ann Arbor, Mich., dormitory that he was on his way and 20 minutes later was looping-the-loop over the Michigan campus.

The flourish of a bath towel from a dormitory window that doubled for Juliet's balcony was the pre-arranged signal that the novel method of paying court had been observed and duly appreciated.

The high-flown courtship culminated in a wedding ceremony at the Detroit Yacht club Wednesday. More than 100 guests bade the newlyweds farewell as they embarked in a honeymoon plane that taxied up to the Yacht club dock afterward.

SPANISH PATROL REACHES CRISIS

Britain and France Are Expected to Reject Italo-German Plan

London, July 1 (AP)—Authoritative quarters tonight forecast that Britain and France tomorrow will reject a proposal from Germany and Italy that they accord belligerent rights to both parties in the Spanish civil war.

The proposal, it was expected, will be put forward in a critical meeting of the directing sub-committee of the 27-nation non-intervention committee.

It will be a counter move to the offer of France and Britain to restore the naval patrol of Spanish coasts by using their own ships in place of those Italy and Germany withdrew last week. Berlin and Rome turned down that scheme in Tuesday's meeting of the sub-committee.

The possibility was seen that the whole non-intervention effort might be abandoned tomorrow. British officials remained silent, but it was learned government leaders have been highly displeased by the Italio-German stand against Britain's efforts to salvage international cooperation to keep the Spanish war from spreading.

Work In Hayfield Kills Former Baker

Mt. Pleasant, Mich., July 1 (AP)—Gerald A. Reed, 30, former Grand Rapids baker, died from over-exertion today while pitching hay on a farm in Union township. Coroner C. M. Baskerville said death was due to heart failure.

Reed had returned to his family's farm to work only three weeks ago. He and his eight-year-old son had gone to a neighbor's farm to help when he toppled from a truck and was dead. His two daughters, three and five years old, were attending a cricus in Mt. Pleasant with their grandmother at the time.

Niles, Mich., July 1 (AP)—Herbert Hayden, whose plane crashed from an altitude of 1,000 feet last Friday, went from a hospital to justice court today and paid $1 in fines for each foot of the fall.

He also received a suspended sentence of 90 days in jail for flying a passenger with only a student license, a violation of aeronautical regulations.

Strike Headquarters At Ironwood Wrecked

Ironwood, Mich., July 1 (AP)—Leonard J. McManman, Gogebic county prosecutor, said tonight an investigation would be made to determine the identity of the persons who smashed windows and overturned furniture at lumberjack strike headquarters here and at Bessemer, Mich., early today.

Police said from 50 to 100 took part in the attack.

"There has been resentment at Ironwood since Tuesday," McManman said, "when the city commission refused to take immediate action on a request of a business men's committee to 'get rid of the undesirables and aliens.' "

The raid on strike headquarters followed a few hours after 300 pickets had fought with 20 state police and deputy sheriffs when five logging trucks, escorted by state police, attempted to drive through a picket line at Marenisco.

The fight lasted half an hour before police routed the strikers with tear gas. Police Sergeant A. J. Hayden said 33 of the 52 men detained by the police were aliens. No formal charges have been filed against them.

Fred Thiele, owner of the building housing the strike headquarters at Ironwood, said he recognized several of the raiders as "local men" and said he would sign complaints.

DECIDING VOTE IS SOUGHT ON CIVIL SERVICE

MURPHY INSISTENT ON ADOPTION OF MERIT SYSTEM

BY GILBERT T. SHILSON

Lansing, July 1 (AP)—Governor Murphy said today he personally will request members of the legislature to return to the capitol on final adjournment dates to pass again on civil service.

The business session of the legislature ended last Saturday. Final adjournment, usually a perfunctory ceremony attended by a handful of nearby senators and representatives, was set for July 29 and 30. At that time the legislature could, if a majority of the members return, consider the measure which died in a conference deadlock a week ago.

May Go to Voters

The governor said he will send a letter to each member urging him to attend final adjournment sessions "as a matter of good government." If a majority can be rounded up he will submit a special message contending that civil service is an essential step toward better government. He also would ask the legislature to act upon a bill amending the unemployment compensation act, which, like civil service, was lost in the shuffle the last night of the business session.

The governor's action was viewed as the first step in a campaign that may last until the general election of 1938. Unless the legislature reassembles and enacts a civil service law the executive plans to lead a movement to initiate the measure by popular petition. This would entail a special session of the legislature. If the proposed act was not adopted in the special session it would be submitted to the voters in a statewide election.

In attempting to bring back to Lansing enough legislators to reconsider civil service the governor faces a difficult task. Two major opbstacles are in the way. The first is that a number of members, as evidenced by roll calls in the house and senate, do not appear to be in favor of the merit system. The second is that legislators would have to return at their own expense. They are allowed mileage to and from the capitol only once for a regular session and final adjournment is part of the session. To some members living at distant points the cost of transportation might be viewed as prohibitive.

The civil service bill, should the legislature reconvene, would be ready for consideration by a conference committee. It passed both houses, in widely different form, during the business session. The senate and house could not agree so the measure was sent to conference. All during the final night Governor Murphy sought to point the way to common ground, but the conference committee came little closer to compromise than the houses themselves. Its members finally admitted disagreement. A new conference committee was named, but the senate adjourned abruptly and the house followed suit, leaving the measure hanging in the air.

HUGE DEFICIT AHEAD

Lansing, July 1 (AP)—Auditor General George T. Gundry said the state entered a new fiscal year today, with a cash balance on hand. A huge deficit was in prospect for the coming 12 months, however.

Gundry said the state's revenues in the year that ended yesterday totalled $218,263,927.54. Disbursements as of June 29 totalled $211,525,876.64. He said another two weeks would be required before the books could be closed on disbursements, but that they certainly would not equal the difference between income and present expenditures. "We have ended the year in the black," the auditor general said.

Correspondence found in luggage indicated the party was en route to Grand Haven, Mich., on a vacation trip.

COLLEGE GOLF LIST NARROWS

Michigan's Bill Barclay Only One Left Not from Southwest

BY DILLON GRAHAM

Oakmont, Pa., July 1 (AP)—Louisiana's lanky aces, Paul Leslie and Fred Haas, strode magnificently into the semi-finals of the national intercollegiate golf championship today along with Michigan's Bill Barclay and Tulane's Vincent D'Antoni.

Only the presence of Michigan's athlete keep the semi-finals from being an all Southeastern conference affair—or even a scrap for Louisiana state honors.

For Leslie and Haas today's round was just a breeze, but the others had to work for their leads. Leslie overwhelmed John Hobart, of Illinois, 9 and 8, with a brilliant third-nine stretch, and Haas whipped Harvey Johnson, Georgetown, 7 and 5. He, too, put on the pressure in the front nine this afternoon.

Barclay, conqueror of medalist Willie Turnesa, yesterday, finally outlasted Princeton's Jim Marks, 2 and 1, in a match that was square through 32 holes. D'Antoni Southeastern conference champion, merely capitalized on the late errors of Stanley Holditch, George Tech, to win 4 and 3.

The quarter-finalists faced a day of many moods. The skies unloosed a windy rain as they drove off and tramped away under bright-colored umbrellas. A cold mist covered Oakmont's Hills around noon and jackets felt good. This afternoon shirt sleeves were needed under a broiling sun.

President Has Full Day Off After Wedding

BY D. HAROLD OLIVER

Hyde Park, N. Y., July 1. (AP)—President Roosevelt, surrounded by members of his immediate family, put in a full day of rest at his Dutchess county home today following a busy eight hours in Delaware where he witnessed the marriage of his son Franklin to Ethel Du Pont.

He intends to stay here until Monday night. White House headquarters were established in their customary place at nearby Poughkeepsie and a pouch of government mail arrived during the day to await executive attention.

The president, after spending several hours with his mother, wife and children about the estate following his arrival by special train from Wilmington this morning, went for a brief motor ride about the countryside in the afternoon. He inspected his mother's farm and his own cottage property several miles to the east.

After dinner tonight he set aside a few minutes to join Lord Tweedsmuir, governor general of Canada, in exchanging "good neighbor" greetings, in celebrating Canada's 70th anniversary of confederation.

The chief executive visited in Quebec last summer following a sailing trip to Campobello, N. B., and on that occasion spoke of the long years of amity and friendship existing between the United States and Canada as an example which foreign militaristic nations might well adopt.

Lord Tweedsmuir later returned the visit, spending several days at the White House in Washington.

Those returning to Hyde Park with the president from Wilmington included his mother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. John Boettiger, son-in-law and daughter who came from Seattle for the wedding; John, youngest son and Franklin's best man; Mrs. James Roosevelt, Jr., a daughter-in-law, and Miss Ann Clark, of Boston, John's dancing partner at the Du-Pont post-wedding reception.

Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt of Fort Worth, Texas, left the train to spend the day in New York City.

Hoot Gibson Can't Leave One Circus And Join Another

Ann Arbor, Mich., July 1 (AP)—Hoot Gibson, film cowboy, was prevented by a court order late today from leaving one circus to perform with another.

Judge Earl C. Pugsley, sitting in circuit court, ruled that Gibson's contract with Wallace Brothers' circus was valid and has 20 weeks to continue, and that the entertainer could join no other troupe during that period.

Wallace Brothers' circus accused Gibson of "walking out" of its show at Gary, Ind., Tuesday and Judge Pugsley granted its petition to enjoin him from appearing with the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus when it arrived here yesterday.

The court, in its latest ruling, also ordered Wallace Brothers' circus to post $15,000 cash bond.

Rolls Of Old Age Assistance Reach High State Level

Lansing, July 1 (AP)—The start of a new fiscal year found old age assistance rolls at their highest levels in Michigan today, and the direct relief burden on the downgrade.

James G. Bryant, head of the old age assistance bureau, said 35,962 persons now receive pensions averaging $17.15 a month.

A year ago 27,697 persons were on the rolls, receiving an average of 16.39 a month. The June payment was the highest the state has made.

STRIKE TRUCE WELCOMED IN STEEL MILLS

the 36-day-old controversy, Secretary Perkins released a report of the unsuccessful federal mediation board.

The report declared the refusal of the four strike-besieged steel companies to enter into any agreement with the steel workers' organizing committee of C. I. O. "is not the way to industrial peace."

Calls C. I. O. Irresponsible

Miss Perkins defended at a press conference the C. I. O. leadership, asserting the affiliated Amalgamated Clothing Workers and United Mine Workers had long records of fidelity to their contracts.

Tom Girdler, Republic Steel corporation chairman, charged before the mediation board that the C. I. O. was wholly irresponsible.

"I think that sometime these people will meet and talk about their problem, and when they do meet they will solve this problem," said Miss Perkins.

The mediation board's report reiterated:

"We cannot but believe that the bitterness and suspicion which separate the two sides would be allayed by a man-to-man discussion around the conference table between the heads of the four companies and the union representatives, and that the only present possible hope of settlement lies in such a meeting."

Cost 30 Million

The strike has cost 13 lives and more than $30,000,000 loss in wages and production stoppage.

Criticism of President Roosevelt in relation to the strike came from representatives Ditter, Republican, of Pennsylvania, and Ellender, Democrat, of Louisiana.

"What is it that seals his lips?" Ditter asked his colleagues.

"Is this condition to be allowed to become worse and worse until a dictatorship becomes inevitable?

"Have we come to such a point that the president dare not declare for law and order?"

Swift dispute arose over claims of victory in the Inland Steel settlement.

C. I. O. leaders announced a "victory rally" to celebrate the truce pact at East Chicago tomorrow.

Inland spokesmen held a different viewpoint. Vice President Clarence B. Randall declared:

"We signed nothing. We made no agreement with anybody. The C. I. O. simply accepted, through Gov. Townsend (of Indiana), the provisions of our labor policy which we submitted to the governor last Saturday" and which "restated the labor policy we announced to our employes on May 25."

The three other members of the strike-sieged "little steel" group, meanwhile, gave no sign of following Inland Steel's lead with a "third party" agreement.

State Conservation Inquiry Is Delayed

Lansing, July 1 (AP)—Speaker George A. Schroeder said today there would be no immediate start of legislative investigations of the state conservation department and the conduct of the liquor control commission that went out of office in early January.

"Neither investigation will be started until the legislature has adjourned finally, on July 30," Schroeder said.

The 1937 legislature ordered the investigations.

Honolulu Greets Hollywood Brides

Honolulu, July 1 (AP)—More than 5,000 excited fans jammed the waterfront today to welcome Hollywood's newest honeymooners, Mary Pickford and Charles "Buddy" Rogers, and Jeanett MacDonald and Gene Raymond.

Raymond and Miss MacDonald came ashore immediately. They were nearly mobbed and were finally taken away by a police escort around their automobile. They said they would remain about six weeks.

Miss Pickford and Rogers stayed aboard ship, apparently to avoid the crowd.

Flint Automobile Salesrooms Open

Flint, Mich., July 1 (AP)—Closed by strikes and picketed for nearly a month, Flint automobile dealers reopened salesrooms and service departments today.

A picket line marched in front of one salesroom as all but one of the 30 showrooms opened.

The dealers had agreed to the reopening in defiance of the United Automobile Workers of America, which called the strike.

Indianapolis Race Winner Enters At Roosevelt Raceway

Westbury, N. Y., July 1 (AP)—Wilbur Shaw, America's 1937 winner of the Indianapolis classic, watched Bernd Rosemeyer of Germany roar down the Roosevelt raceway straightaway at 161.411 miles per hour today and then threw his battered crash helmet into the international ring.

Shaw announced that he will drive on Saturday for the George Vanderbilt cup in the Maserati car which Enzo Fiermonte, socialite husband of the former Mrs. Madeline Force Astor Dick had planned to pilot. Fiermonte, earlier in the afternoon, had withdrawn on advice of officials who believed that the former boxer has had too little experience for the field of speed kings he would have to face here.

This morning, Fiermonte went into a spin at the end of the secondary straightaway and crashed into the guard-rail. His car was not seriously damaged, however, and Shaw was working overtime tonight with his mechanical force to have the 400-horsepower Maserati in shape for qualification trials tomorrow.

Little Joe Yeager Buried At Detroit

Detroit, July 1 (AP)—Last rites will be held here tomorrow for "Little Joe" Yeager, leading pitcher for the Detroit Tigers when the American League was formed. He joined the Bengals in 1900 and was credited with introducing the squeeze play in the major leagues.

He had played with the Chicago Cubs, the St. Louis Browns and the New York Yankees when they were called the Highlanders. Besides hurling, he had appeared as catcher, infielder, outfielder and utility man.

Yeager died Tuesday night.

Tallman resigned last week to become superintendent of the West Virginia state police.

The board of governors also named Alden W. Thomson, head of the health and physical education department of the Grand Rapids, Mich., high school, as dean of the school of physical education succeeding Dr. Carl P. Schott, who resigned to accept a similar post at Pennsylvania State college.

the fiscal year on June 30, 1936, also showed a cash balance on hand, with revenue of $201,360,844.89, and disbursements totalling $195,766,800.33.

Computed in the state's 1936-37 income were recorded sales tax receipts and revenue from the sale of liquor. The sales tax yielded $54,850,587.90, liquor $40,244,503.93.

Despite its "money in the bank" as it entered the new year, the state faced the prospect of an unbalanced budget presented by the 1937 legislature. The best estimates by legislative financial experts disagreed as to whether there was a $10,000,000 or $15,000,000 gap between pledged expenditures and anticipated income.

Detectives Help Roosevelts Keep Honeymoon Secret

Wilmington, Del., July 1 (AP)—A few secret service men and their parents held the secret tonight of the disappearance of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., on their wedding trip.

Steamship officials in Montreal said they expected the honeymooners for the sailing of the Empress of Britain July 10 from Quebec city for Liverpool.

But where they planned to go meanwhile was merely a subject for conjecture. Some said Maine. Others said they couldn't even guess.

The newly wed couple was still at Owls Nest, home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Dupont, last night when the President and Mrs. Roosevelt left by special train for Hyde Park, N. Y., for a family reunion. Then they disappeared.

They were married yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Trusty Makes His Escape At Ionia

Ionia, Mich., July 1 (AP)—Lewis Yaeger, 37, a trusty, escaped early tonight from the state hospital for criminal insane here. He walked away from the greenhouse, where he had been assigned to duty.

Yaeger was committed to the hospital in 1929 from recorder's court at Detroit. He had been charged with assault with intent to kill.

AMERICAN GIRL IS ELIMINATED

Seats at Premium for Men's Tennis Match at Wimbledon

BY GAYLE TALBOT

Wimbledon, Eng., July 1 (AP)—For only the second time in 11 years, there'll be no American girl on Wimbledon's center court when the women's all-England tennis championship is decided on Saturday.

Blond Alice Marble, California's last hope of supplying a successor to Helen Wills Moody and Helen Jacobs on the roll of Wimbledon winners, fell before the raking drives of Jadwiga Jedrzejowska, buxom Polish secretary, 8-66, 6-2, in the first of today's semi-finals.

In the other, Dorothy Round, the 1934 champion who is making a glorious comeback after two years of tennis obscurity, easily trimmed France's famous veteran, Mme. Simone Mathieu, 6-4, 6-0.

Dorothy's play in the second set in which she made only two errors and yielded only five points bordered on the sensational and automatically established her a favorite for the finals.

Miss Marble, by turns playing furiously good and strikingly bad tennis, gave Mlle. Jedrzejowska considerably more difficulty before she finally went under.

She actually led, 5-3, in the first set and once was at set point only to blast it over the baseline. When she then permitted the Polish girl to deuce and then win the set, her Wimbledon goose was cooked.

Wait All Night

Individuals tonight were offering as high as $30 for a center court seat for tomorrow's men's final between America's Don Budge and Germany's Baron Gottfried Von Cramm, but there were few to be had at any price.

Before play ended today a line already had formed to stand all night for the privilege of buying standing room on two sides of the court.

The chief tennis bookmaker offered 5 to 4 on Budge but there were many who gave the Baron, a finalist against Fred Perry last year, a good chance of winning.

The only basis for comparison this year is the fact that the American gave Austin a pitiful beating in the Queen's club tournament while Von Cramm needed four hard sets to do it yesterday.

Budge beat the German in the 1935 Davis Cup interzone finals but that meant little as Germany already had been eliminated and Von Cramm played half-heartedly. Previously Von Cramm had licked Budge in the semi-finals at Wimbledon. Tomorrow's is the rubber match.

Only female eels are caught at sea.

SOVIET ARMY AWAITS MOVE OF JAPANESE

scribed last night by the Japanese ambassador as "very strained."

Russia had suddenly floated a defense loan of 4,000,000,000 rubles ($800,000,000 at the official rate) to be used for "consolidation of national defense." Officials predicted quick over-subscription.

The Japanese envoy, Mamoru Shigemitsu, had intimated "very serious" consequences might come if the Soviet Union rejected Japan's demand for evacuation of the disputed islands in the Amur, on the border of Russian Siberia and Japanese-dominated Manchoukuo.

"The Soviet side is ready immediately to give the necessary order to retire its armed forces should a similar order be issued on the other side."

Boy Scouts Gather To Watch Pageant

Washington, July 1 (AP)—Thousands of Boy Scouts gathered in a giant arena tonight to watch a pageant of scoutcraft and history.

Scouts from these three states and from Delaware, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia, North Carolina and Tennessee took part.

Pageants on five other nights during the ten-day Scout Jamboree will depict Indian dances, wild west rodeos, cyclones, a history of New England, and a "typical day in Dixie."

ALL STRANGLING SUSPECTS FREE

Police See Possibility That More Than One Attacked 3 Girls

Inglewood, Calif., July 1 (AP)—The possibility that more than one person attacked and garroted three little Inglewood girls whose bodies were found in a ravine Monday was advanced by investigators today as they strove to justify several baffling aspects of the crime.

One official expressed a theory that older children might have been the killers.

These developments came as Sheriff Eugene Biscailuz announced all suspects arrested up to this morning were free of suspicion. Those cleared included an ex-convict and the son of a prominent Los Angeles family, both once regarded as "hot" suspects.

Another man, a 37-year-old former sailor, was brought here later for questioning.

He was described as similar in appearance to "Eddie the Sailor", who several witnesses have said lured the victims, Madeline Everett, 7, her sister, Melba, 9, and Jeanette Stephens, 8, from a park Saturday to go on a rabbit hunt.

Tax Monies Will Be Paid To Alger County By State

Munising, July 1 — Representatives of the state auditor general's department Monday gave assurance to the county supervisors that delinquent tax collections totaling about $12,000 and weight and gas tax monies would be paid the county immediately. A total of $15,077.23 of delinquent tax collections and $10,545.37 in gas and weight taxes are being withheld from the county as security for the county institutional debt of $29,495.58. Returns made the county will be made from these although the state may withhold amounts until the account is paid.

Two township school districts had entered complaints that delinquent tax collections, part of which goes to the schools, were held back from them. James K. Jamison, deputy auditor general, stated that this was not the state's fault but that the county had defaulted in its debt payments.

The supervisors authorized the highway and bridges committee to go over county roads with the road commission to determine roads that need to be repaired or rebuilt, and passed a motion calling for $1,000 bonds for each member of the road commission, to conform with state law.

The county clerk and the county treasurer were authorized to attend the state conventions which will be held this month, at the county's expense.

The board approved the request of the treasurer for extra clerical help for the month at a salary of not more than $50; increased the salary of the secretary of the poor commission from $65 to $75 a month, effective July 1, 1937; authorized the treasurer to pay the state institutional debt for the quarter ending September 30, 1936, totaling $1,980.60; and approved the rebuilding of the courthouse driveway and repairs on the porch of the sheriff's residence.

Out of Danger

ONE of the accomplishments of the present session of the state legislature was its failure to enact into law House Bill No. 662 which would have made the office of state conservation director appointive by the governor instead of the conservation commission.

When the bill was introduced, conservation, sportsmen's and civic organizations throughout Michigan started a vigorous campaign of protest. The Wolverine Conservation association and the three service clubs of Escanaba were among those who opposed the move.

The measure passed the house but failed to gain its way through the senate. State Senator James D. Dotsch of Garden was among those who paid heed to the appeals of the conservation-minded individuals and organizations in the state.

The Michigan conservation department, under the present conservation commission setup created under the late Governor Fred W. Green's administration, has been as free of politics as it is possible for a governmental agency to be. The department selects its personnel through an examination system and has been successful in getting all in all a corps of able and intelligent workers.

The lawmakers, although they did not pass a civil service law at this session, should be commended for not adopting the other measure, which would have extended the spoils system in Michigan.

Long Live the Queen!

MISS MERLE HAWKINS has been elected queen of the Gladstone Golden Jubilee celebration after a spirited contest, in which a large number of Delta county girls participated. The event served to arouse much interest in the celebration, which will open in Gladstone on Saturday and will continue until Monday night.

For many weeks, Gladstone has been making plans for its celebration, which promises to be even greater than its big firemen's tournament back in 1912, an event which old-timers have long remembered.

While Gladstone's celebration will be featured by a gigantic pageant at the Marble's Athletic Field, depicting much of the community's past history, the upbay city is also looking far into the future. During the past couple years, Gladstone has undertaken many important public improvements, including the construction of a yacht harbor, sewage disposal plant, city hall, reservoir and concrete streets.

Gladstone faces the future with confidence. It is rapidly developing its possibilities for attracting tourists and resorters. Acquisition of various units of its lumbering industry by different companies assures the community these plants will continue to run for years to come. Gladstone has good reasons for celebrating this coming week-end.

The Hard Way Back

AS THE first six months of a new year pass into history, it is customary to take a general look around to see how far the nation has gone forward—or slid back—during the period. In line with this custom, statisticians are emerging with their late June reports. And for once, dry figures are serving as a medium for a highly dramatic contrast.

On the bright side of the picture, the Department of Agriculture presents proof of a "traditional sign of prosperity"—a decline in farm population. This decrease, the first since 1930, shows that during 1936, the number of persons living on farms dropped 80,000. The assumption, of course, is that factory jobs lured them to the cities.

In another government statement, it is estimated that the cotton carry-over on July 31 will be a million bales less than the carry-over for that date last year. The assumption here is that that many more bales will have been sold.

Other figures from the Department of Commerce show that in the first six months of 1937 industrial production rose 20 per cent over the 1936 period; factory employment was up 13 per cent; factory payrolls, 29 per cent; machine tool orders booked, 90 per cent; construction contracts ahead, 17 percent; dividend payments, 40 per cent.

By themselves, these figures indicate that our undernourished economic problem-child is putting on weight. But to understand the real portent of the gains, it is necessary to consider the difficulties under which they were accomplished.

During the first four months of the year there were 2058 strikes, involving more than a million workers. The number of man-days lost for the period reached nearly 11 million. Wages lost by striking employes and production lost to factories during involuntary shutdowns are inestimable.

And when the figures for production and wages lost in the seven-state steel strike and the innumerable side-strikes are added, the total economic loss for the first six months will be no less than staggering.

In the face of terrific and widespread industrial disturbances, it is remarkable that business indexes show any improvement at all. But the fact remains that they do, and for this, the United States has every right to pat itself on the back and strut its prowess before less successful nations.

But then, as far as the strikes have gone, the nation hasn't done itself so proud. In the light of our other improvement, they pose this sobering thought:

How much farther around the Depression corner would we have been if industry and labor could have resolved their differences before the strikes instead of after them?

Fireworks Bootlegged

WHILE the recent tragic accident which caused an Escanaba boy to lose an eye has scared local dealers out of the fireworks business, authorities state that the problem still exists because of the fact that individuals are bootlegging the banned explosives into the city.

The problem is quite general in Michigan. E. J. Burrill, state fire marshal, reports that "bootleg" fireworks in quantities larger than during any similar period since 1925 are being distributed in the state. Mr. Burrill predicts that there will be more Fourth of July accidents than in 10 years, unless parents and children change the situation sharply.

Quite a large quantity of fireworks is being imported through the mails. Although Michigan has an anti-fireworks law, the fire marshal's department has no power over shipments in interstate commerce.

About the only key to the situation is the parents themselves. The trouble is, however, that many grownups like to play with the firecrackers as well as the children do.

AROUND THE PENINSULA
(Ironwood Globe)

SOMETHING of a record is held by J. L. Lipsett and Son establishment in Sault Ste. Marie. The firm last week observed the sixty-second year of its existence, dealing in hardware all these years but branching out into the sale of automobiles as so many firms have done. The founder has retired from active life, being 82 years old, but his sons are carrying on the business.

Delta county has had an unusually large number of serious automobile accidents during the last few months, which have prompted law enforcement officers to announce they are going to get tough. The authorities have agreed to impose the maximum penalties on motorists convicted of drunken driving. They also intend to keep a close watch on persons driving away from dance halls early in the mornings. Patrol of the highways on week-ends is another preventive measure.

A rather odd penalty was imposed upon a driver at Newberry last week when he was found guilty of manslaughter, having been the driver of a car in which a friend was killed. Cheboygan judge, who heard the case, sentenced him to be on probation for two years and to pay $100 funeral costs of his victim. But apparently there was nothing that could be done for the wife and three children who survive the victim.

Like other colleges, Jordan at Menominee has established a news bureau and is sending out regular news items to newspapers of the Peninsula and contingent Wisconsin territory. There is one point taht officers of Jordan college should clear up. It has been frequently said the college is not accredited and that graduates of the school therefore cannot teach in Michigan. If that is not true, it should be refuted quickly.

Manistique, as most folks know, is only a short distance from Escanaba. Yet John Bartels, Escanaba food dealer, visited Manistique the other day for the first time in the 48 years he has been a resident of Escanaba. If he continues to stick that close to home, there are a lot of places in the Peninsula worth seeing that he will be a long time in visiting.

The Ira Peaberthy post of the American Legion, Calumet, is entitled to generous praise for a project it will undertake in August. All crippled children in the Calumet-Laurium district will be taken on an all-day outing the first week in August. The children will visit Eagle Harbor and Fort Wilkins and will ride over the Brockway Mountain drive. Members of the auxiliary will chaperone the youngsters.

How long have moose been on Isle Royale? The report that they first came to the island from Canada in 1912 is discredited by Capt. Pearse of Rogers City, who says he saw moose there on four occasions during the summer of 1908. And J. Abner Sherman is quoted as saying he saw moose on the island prior to 1880. Capt. Pearse visited the island in 1908 when he was second mate on a lighthouse tender that delivered material for construction of the Rock of Ages lighthouse.

Leonard Clapp, operator of a resort on Au Train lake, is a bit selfish. He would like to see the 10-day tourist fishing license extended to two weeks, believing tourists would stay in the Peninsula longer if they had the two-week privilege for a dollar. Most tourists, however, are accustomed to paying considerable more for the privilege of fishing and few will complain over the generous privileges extended them by Michigan.

NO FLUTTERS
(Baltimore Sun)

THINGS are in a parlous state from Dan to Beersheba. Men are clubbing each other over the head in the industrial areas in the name of universal brotherhood and a perfect society, and on all sides we hear predictions of almost immediate doom. It was reserved, however, for that ebullient optimist, Governor George Earle of Pennsylvania, to tell us the most alarming news of all, to wit, that "there are no men in the Democratic Party or any other party who reach knee-high in stature mentally and morally to Franklin D. Roosevelt."

This would, indeed, be a sad state of affairs and, for all we know, it may be true, but something tells us that when the shouting and shooting is over the country will decide to worry along with one of the second-raters now available. We may be rash, but it seems a fair guess that when asked, as Governor Earle puts it, to choose between "the third-term tradition and the welfare of the country," the American people will decide that no such alternative presents itself. Another Roosevelt wrecked his party by asking for a "third cup of coffee," and he had had only one and three-quarters cups at that. Some of the faithful in 1912 believed that nobody else in the country was knee-high to Theodore Roosevelt, mentally, morally and any way you slice it, but the country ignored this and took Woodrow Wilson.

World Aftairs Reviewed

A new secret police system installed in the tiny European principality of Liechtenstein has stirred up rumors of an impending change in governmental form. The country is governed by a reigning prince, Francis I, under a written constitution, and with a parliament of fifteen members elected by popular vote.

You may need a magnifying glass to find Liechtenstein easily on the map," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society, "for this principality on the border between eastern Switzerland and western Austria has an area of only sixty-five square miles, or less than the District of Columbia. It is one of the smallest sovereign states in Europe. From his castle above Vaduz, the capital, Francis I can survey almost his whole domain.

—DIKES PREVENT FLOODS—

Tucked away in the central Alps, Liechtenstein remains one of the few places in Europe seldom explored by the tourist. Many have visited it without their knowledge, however, for the Paris-Vienna express passes through the country for fifteen minutes.

Linked with Austria in a customs union from 1852 to about 1919, Liechtenstein now is more closely allied with Switzerland with which it has had a customs agreement since 1924. It has used Swiss currency for 16 years, and its post and telegraph services are administered by Switzerland. The tiny principality's only communication with Austria is by railroad, but its tie with Switzerland also is by a highway and five bridges across the upper Rhine. I

Usually the Rhine meanders peacefully over its gravel bed, but in flood times, such as that of September 1927, it becomes a dangerous torrent and does great damage to the adjacent fertile plains. To mitigate floods in Liechtenstein the river has been confined within dikes.

The Rhine valley comprises one third of Liechtenstein's territory. It is divided into pastures where black and dun cattle graze; into fields of maize, flax, and hay; vineyards; and orchards of apples, pears, and plums. Most of Liechtenstein's approximately 12,000 inhabitants are engaged in either agriculture or stock raising. At the close of the World War refugees poured into this peaceful haven, one of the few places in Central Europe to escape the horrors of the war and the famines that followed it.

—NO MILITARY SERVICE—

Flanking the Rhine valley are lofty mountains, some of them rising more than a mile high. Down them roar cascading streams that provide electricity not only for lighting but also for power for cotton weaving mills and sawmills. The manufacture of lumber, cotton and leather goods, and pottery, are Liechtenstein's chief industries. Cattle roam on the unforested mountain slopes. Thick forests of beeches, poplars, and evergreens provide hunting grounds for foxes, stags, and hares.

Liechtenstein has no national debt and imposes few taxes, so the majority of its citizens are prosperous, and contented. Although few are wealthy enough to employ servants, neither are they poor. By means of hard work and frugality, most of them are able to attain their chief aim—to own a modern white-washed house with a hot-water furnace. Simple pleasures such as singing societies, and Alpine horn concerts, please them more than moving pictures. Most of them are Catholics, and wayside shrines are numerous along the country's good roads.

The capital, Vaduz, is a contraction of 'Vallis dulcis,' meaning "sweet valley,' a name which might be applied to the whole country. The town's flower-bedecked white houses lie at the foot of a white cliff. On the cliff, three hundred feet above, is perched the white castle belonging to the Prince. Its ancient square tower is said to have been built by the Romans, but the rest of the castle was built in 1712 and restored in 1907 in a 16th century style. In it are displayed the eighty leather helmets of Liechtenstein's last soldiers. Since 1868 when military service was discontinued, the country has had no army.

New York Column

BY JACK STINNETT

NEW YORK—Nat Pendleton, the genial menace of more movies than you can name in an hour, is in from London where he has been making his first British picture, a piece called "Gangfay," with England's lovely lady of the dance, Jessie Matthews, starred.

"Gangsters have fallen on evil days in the United States," says Pendleton, "but in England they are still popular heroes . . . about like they were here five years ago. Why every time I went out in a taxi, about a hundred boys on bicycles . . . better make it 24 . . . used to follow the car and then come up crying for the old autograph whenever I'd stop.

"Autograph collectors are thicker in England than here or Hollywood. When I landed at Plymouth, there must have been about 200 of them swarmed around . . . better make it 42 . . . and I signed until I had a cramp. Then they left and along came the newspaper men and photographers . . . an done said he wanted to get a picture of me signing an autograph.

* * *

"He grabbed hold of what seemed to be an old gentleman in a rather shabby looking raincoat and said: 'Come over here, Pop, we want to take your picture.' The fellow came all right and the photographer stuck a book in his hand and said: 'Now, Pop, you hold that up so Mr. Pendleton can sign it. Just think, Pop, you are going to get your picture in the paper with Nat Pendleton, the great Hollywood movie actor.'

"It was about that time that I looked down at 'Pop' for the first time . . . and was my face red! Looking at me from under those bushy eyebrows was nobody but Giovanni Martinelli, the great Metropolitan tenor! Whew. I nearly fainted. But it was all right.

"That wasn't the only time, however, I put my foot in it. Before I came home, went over to Paris and at the Casino de Paris one night saw Maurice Chevalier.

"I used to know him pretty well . . . worked with him in both the English and French versions of "The Big Pond.' Well he spotted me and made a little speech about his good friend who had come all the way from Hollywood to see him. He had the spotlight thrown on me. I had to say something.

* * *

"My French was a little rusty but I was getting along all right, saying how glad I was to be there and to see my comrade, Maurice, again . . . Then I got stuck and I ended by saying: 'I guess that's about all I can say . . . at these prices.' Whew. Did that crack flop. You could have heard a pin drop. I don't know yet what was wrong. Maybe it's an insult to make any reference at all to prices in Paris . . . especially while the exposition is on."

Nat Pendleton wrestled his way onto the stage and from there into pictures back in the silent days. He was a member of the 1924 U. S. wrestling team to the Olympics and four years later was coach of the team. His first stage role was that of wrestler in a play called "Naughty Cinderella."

Born in Davenport, Iawa, he was educated in New York City, went to Portugal as an accountant for Standard Oil Co., for four years had his own importing-exporting business in Lisbon . . . returned to New York to start his own picture company . . . turned wrestler . . . then actor.

News Behind The News

BY H. R. BAUKHAGE

Copyright, 1937, by the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.

Washington, July 1.—When a lady correspondent who knows how to put a double meaning into her voice asked the President if they "caught any fish" on Jefferson island, nobody missed the point. And nobody got the answer.

But if you can believe a political fisherman's story with any less effort than you can swallow one of the Izaak Walton variety, here's the catch—or what was left of it when the trading on Capitol Hill was over:

1. A compromise court bill.
2. Government reorganization.
3. Farm bill (ever-normal granary et al.)

For the court compromise without a filibuster, there was offered one of the constitutional amendments the oppositionists have asked for.

—STORY OF THE BILLS—

Whether the above is fish, flesh, fowl and not just another good, redolent herring, time will tell. But the miraculous adventures of the farm bill and the reorganization bill may as well be told now.

—TWINGES TOLD 'EM—

Why did the administration, after backing the farm (ever-normal granary et al.) bill, drop it and then, with apparently no reason, suddenly attempt to bring it back to life?

Well, in the first place, the administration, or at least the secretary of agriculture, dropped it only in the sense that a juggler drops a ball once in a while just to keep up your interest.

Then old dame Nature took a hand, recorded by a department of agriculture release of June 29:

"A 4-point drop in the index of prices received by farmers.

"Decline was attributed to improved crop prospects and partial adjustment of prices to a new crop basis."

To the farmers, of course, the bulletin was old stuff—just confirmation of what they already knew by the twinges in their left elbows.

--HARVESTING PLANTED QUESTIONS--

The price situation was a wonderful break because it meant more kindly consideration of any stabilization scheme. But Secretary Wallace didn't depend on that alone—he produced an excellent front and back stage drama.

It began at a press conference a week ago. At that time, two questions were asked of him:

1. Why he had ceased to support the farm bill. He didn't admit it had been dropped, but he said that, if it should be, it would be because of apathy on the part of the farmers.

2. Whether there would be any commodity loans? He said not if he could help it, unless there went with them the type of production control that would prevent "committing another farm board." The farmers knew what that meant. The farm board depressed prices when it finally dumped surpluses on the market.

The questions which brought out these remarks came from sources which suggested that the ideas had been cultivated, if not planted, by Mr. Wallace's colleagues.

Farm letters started coming in to Congress.

Then, Jefferson island over, the secretary took to the Hustings. (More letters).

The farm bill has "administration support" again.

—A SUCCESSFUL SWAP—

As to reorganization, that bill launched with quite as much preparation as the court bill, was completely overshadowed by it. It was given up by some of its closest friends. Cynics, of course, said no reform including loss of patronage could succeed.

The bill was being labelled as the "one constructive" step offered by the administration this session. So, Louis Brownlow, chairman of the group of experts who wrote it, got busy again. Almost immediately he also got sick. His doctors, knowthe the only way he would get the rest he needed, put an air-cooler in his hotel room and a double guard at his door.

Then, quietly, unobtrusively, Charles Edward Merriam, Gentle-voiced political scientist of the University of Chicago, took over. All the politics he knows he didn't learn in a book—he's served as alderman out in Chicago.

Apparently with instructions to trade horses if he had to, he has. Senator Robinson has sat right down and talked turkey. The bill which he submitted is undergoing some vital, vote-getting changes. Hearings are to be held. Meanwhile, it has a good chance.

Lyrics of Life

By Douglas Malloch

AN ENDLESS CHAIN

At dusk, when day drew near to night,
One cabin showed one little light,
And then another farther down,
Until the lamps lit all the town.
  And so it is with other things
  Than lamps: the song a fellow sings
  Is whistled by a passing boy,
  And endless chain of endless joy.

And so it is with someone's smile:
Men are unhappy for awhile,
And then a smiling face they meet,
Like that one light in that one street.
  Then, smiled upon, who walked alone,
  They do some smiling of their own.
  There is no telling, but a grin
  May take a half a city in.

And so it is with being kind:
We think we only help one mind,
One heart, but other lives they touch,
New hearts, new minds, that need as much.
  Kind words, kind deeds, may travel far;
  We never know how kind they are.
  There is no telling, e'er it's through,
  The good a little good may do.

TRIPLE THREAT OVER HOLIDAYS

Fireworks, Auto Crashes and Drownings Cause Many Deaths

Triple threats of fireworks, auto accidents and drownings were cited today by Dr. C. S. Slemons, state health commissioner, in his appeal to Fourth of July celebrants to avoid the tragic results of misdirected patriotic fervor.

Despite the Michigan law prohibiting the sale of fireworks, many serious burns are reported each year due to the bootlegging of fireworks from mail order houses in other states, said the commissioner. He pointed out that last year in the United States 7,738 persons were injured and at least 30 were killed in celebrating the Fourth of July with fireworks. He urged parents to impress upon their children the dangers in the indiscriminant use of fireworks and to substitute less hazardous forms of recreation and community celebrations.

Three Day Holiday

With a three-day holiday for the Fourth this year, Dr. Slemons declared that extreme caution must be the order of the day in view of the tremendous amount of traffic expected upon the highways. "Speeding and reckless driving should have no place on Michigan's highways where 743 persons, a third more than ever before, have already lost their lives this year. Michigan's name at the head of the national auto casualty list is something we cannot be proud of. Plan to take plenty of time to reach your destination when you join the endless holiday caravans over the Fourth of July.

"Swimming is one of our most healthful recreations for the holidays, but like all sports, its dangers must be respected. Horseplay in the water and swimming in unsupervised places are not part of the game. With 305 drownings reported in Michigan last year, it is well to proceed with caution when entering the water for a cooling summer dip. The wise swimmer never swims alone, nor does he take chances. The odds are too great."

Only 13 muscles are required to form a smile; a frown brings 50 facial muscles into play.

Railway Retirement Act Goes Into Effect

The amended Railroad Retirement Act of 1935 went into effect yesterday, each person on the pension roll of a carrier being transferred to the government pension roll under the railroad retirement board.

Pensioners of the Chicago and North Western railway whose applications have been accepted recently and who are to receive the new form of pension are:

Peter Ferdinand Jorgenson, ore dock laborer, whose application was approved on June 25. He entered the service of the North Western on April 30, 1882.

Leopole Dubord, ore dock laborer, whose application for pension under the act was approved May 24. He entered the company's service June 15, 1884.

Frank C. Myers, Waukegan, train baggageman working on the Peninsula division, whose application was approved May 3, and who began work for the North Western during August, 1887.

Charles Carter, trucker at the Escanaba freight depot, whose pension application was approved April 14, 1937. He entered the service of the company on May 24, 1905.

John Lindstrom, switchman, approved on March 31, 1937. He began service September 1, 1889.

Axel W. Ostman, ore dock laborer, approved March 20, 1937. He began service July 7, 1889.

Martin T. Lyons, crossing flagman, whose application was approved on December 2, 1936. He entered service June 5, 1905.

E. O. Bengry, joint cashier at Ishpeming (joint employe with the Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic railway) received his pension notice January 31, 1937. He entered service April 12, 1890.

Carl John Lindell, Ishpeming crossing watchman and joint employe with the D. S. S. & A. railway, received pension notice of approval on March 29, 1937.

Many applications for pension under the new set-up have been sent to the railroad retirement board and the appilcants are awaiting action.

Annuities are to be paid to persons 65 years of age and over; persons who on August 29, 1935 (enactment date of the existing law) were 60 or more years old, with 30 years of service, but with a reduction of 1-180 of the annuity for each month the person may be under the age of 65.

Persons 60 years of age who shall have been totally and permanently disabled, regardless of the number of years of service but with the same reductions noted above.

Persons, regardless of age, who shall have had 30 years of service and who shall have been totally and permanently disabled. Retirement would not be compulsory.

The method of computing benefits would be the same as is provided by the existing law, by multiplying the "years of service" by an amount equalling the total resulting from adding two per cent of the first $50 of the average monthly compension, one and one-half per cent of the next $100, and one per cent of the next $150.

Hence, if a person's average monthly compensation were $250 and his "years of service" 30, the retirement benefit would be $105.

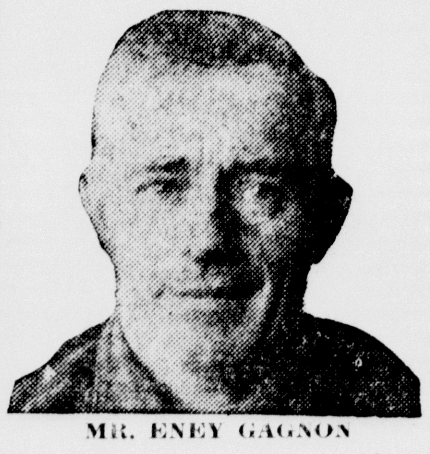
Up and Out of Bed, Able to Work Since He Tried KruGon

Had Been Confined to His Bed for Four Months So Crippled With Rheumatism; New Laxative-Tonic Amazing, Stomach, Kidneys Fine Too, Like New Again

"KruGon is the very medicine I had been needing for twenty-five years," said Mr. Eney Gagnon, Route No. 2, Bark River, Mich., (near Escanaba). "Rheumatism had settled in my back and legs and kept me in constant misery for twenty five years. "I finally became so crippled I was forced to remain in bed for four months before I began this new KruGon. By the time I had finished my first box of this new capsule remedy I was up and around and now since taking two boxes I am back to work, feeling fine and my work is more pleasant I feel so well again. Those awful rheumatic pains have gone entirely, get around with ease and realy enjoy life as others in good health."



MR. ENEY GAGNON

"But that was not all," continued Mr. Gagnon, "I had been bothered for years with attacks of indigestion after eating and my kidneys failed to function properly. It seemed the poisons over my system had disordered my body in general—but a short trial of KruGon soon put me back to normal. I now eat and enjoy my meals without the least disturbance, bowels regulated and it is a real pleasure to tell others how they too may regain their health—through the use of this new "KruGon."

KruGon is sold by West End Drug Store, 1221 Ludington St., Escanaba.

Skilled Tradesmen Are Finding Jobs Through The NRS

The clearance system of announcing job openings in the various parts of the state is enabling many persons to get off the WPA rolls, according to the Escanaba office of the National Reemployment Service.

The local office has received a letter from Joseph D. Burt, formerly of Escanaba, who answered a call for diemakers from Grand Rapids. Burt left Gladstone and went to Grand Rapids, where he reported at the reemployment office and was given the names of four employers who were looking for men. He went to the Tayes Body corporation plant, which is paying $42.75 for a 44-hour week.

Openings in the skilled trades are bulletined in all the reemployment offices in the state, including the one in Escanaba.

Now extinct, passenger pigeons once were so numerous that they broke trees down by their weight and flocks passing overhead darkened the sky.

Trade Unions' Legal Responsibility Defined

By BERTRAM BENEDICT
(Copyright, 1937, Editorial Research Reports)

Should trade unions be made more responsible before the law? That question, of course, can hardly be answered until another question is answered first: Just how legally responsible are trade unions now?

A general impression exists that trades unions, whether local or national, cannot be made legally liable for damages because they are not incorporated. Another widespread impression is that for the same reason the unions cannot be held to a contract. Neither impression is correct.

In several cases the Supreme Court has ruled that absence of corporation papers does not make unions immune from damage suits, nor from paying any damages assessed against them. Perhaps the outstanding decisions along these lines came in 1922 and 1925. The same case was involved, a suit by the Coronado Coal Company against the United Mine Workers for damages from a strike violating the federal anti-trust laws.

Stripped of legal technicalities, the decision in both years was that the union was subject to money damages if guilty. On this issue Mr. Justice Brandeis and Mr. Justice McReynolds saw eye to eye—which is to say that the Court was unanimous.

Damage Suits Impracticable

Employers have taken little advantage of this right to sue the unions for damages under the antitrust laws. Such cases may drag out for years and years. Even if damages should finally be awarded, the difficulty of collecting would be great. In fact, the Coronado suit, which on paper involved over $2,000,000, was settled out of court for $27,500. Few employers today would go so far as the Loewe hat firm in Danbury years ago, when the unionists' savings accounts and homes were attached to make good the union's responsibility.

Only three other damage suits, in addition to the Coronado and the Danbury hatters' suits, have been filed against unions under the federal antitrust laws. Injunction suits against the unions are a more feasible method of attack, and have been more frequently used. But now the Norris-LaGuardia injunction act of 1932 severely restricts the grounds on which federal courts may issue injunctions in labor disputes.

Court decisions are somewhat less clear on whether a union, unincorporated, can be held to a contract. The Supreme Court of the United States has never ruled squarely on the issue, yet most state court rulings have been to the effect that contractual obligations are as binding upon a union as upon a corporation.

Why, then, do unions fight incorporation, if it would make little difference in their present legal status? Well, for one thing they claim that they are not profit-making bodies like business enterprises. They insist that they are really protective and beneficial organizations, like the Masons or the Knights of Columbus or the local golf club. Such groups don't incorporate.

To most employers and employers' associations, this argument lacks reality. Maybe the unions aren't organized primarily to make profits, but they do collect dues from thousands of members which roll up into tidy little nest eggs. And the unions are powerful economic forces throughout the nation, even if they aren't primarily profit-making.

Unions vs. Business Units

In the second place, the unions say that big corporations, although chartered under state laws, really aren't subject to state authority. Many business enterprises take out charters in Delaware, where incorporation laws and practices are notoriously lax. "Can you really expect Delaware to make the Du Pont Company toe the chalk line," the unions want to know, "or certain western states to lay down the law to their big mining companies?"

To which the employers retort that Labor controls certain state governments as firmly as Capital controls others. Also, when the unions had the opportunity (until 1932) to get charters under the federal government, they didn't take advantage of it. To this the unions retort in their turn that Business shouldn't talk about federal incorporation of unions until it stops opposing federal incorporation of businesses in interstate commerce.

In the third place, the unions say that incorporation would make them disclose their war chests; their methods of organizing; their defenses against open shop campaigns, against labor espionage, against company unions. Incorporation might mean publication of membership lists; and in some industries or some plants, union membership practically means loss of job, Wagner act or no Wagner act.

"The truth never hurts the righteous," is the employer comeback to this. "If your practices won't stand the light of day, that's a confession they are indefensible.

"How about your own practises?" answer the unions. "Do you disclose how much you spend for labor spies, for gas bombs, for anti-union propaganda — except when a Senate committee or a lawsuit forces the data out of you? Can even a stockholder find out how much an anti-union campaign costs his corporation? You can't condemn us until you come into court with your own hands clean."

Logic-Chopping

And so the logic chopping goes on. Assuming for the sake of the argument that the unions have the better of the logic, where does that get them? Might they not strengthen their position by making certain concessions to public opinion, whether logical or not? Stanley Baldwin recently assured the House of Commons, in his valedictory after serving as prime minister for a dozen hectic years, that the British government had often done best when disregarding logic.

Take this question of incorporation. Suppose the unions were now to accept it voluntarily, wouldn't that swing many good citizens, perturbed at all this strike violence, to their side? Louis D. Brandeis thought so many years ago, and other tried-and-true friends of Labor think so now.

Or take this matter of living up to the letter of contracts. This isn't nearly so simple an issue as it appears to be on the surface, but the general public thinks it is. Sometimes it is politic to yield to what may be public prejudices, if they are deep-seated. Many of the union leaders now recognize that point; if they can make the rank and file also see it, their task might be immeasurably easier.

When employers say: "We won't recognize you until you get incorporated," it may be good logic for the unions to answer: "We won't get incorporated until you recognize us," but it might be better tactics to say: "All right, we'll incorporate and then we'll see if you'll recognize us."

Good-Will of Public

The day is past when the unions have to fight in total disregard of public opinion because all avenues of publicity are barred to them. Mr. Lewis and Mr. Green can have radio air and newspaper space almost any time they want it. And some of the most conservative newspapers have been printing signed articles, often contrary to their own editorial position, condemning employers for refusing to agree in writing to do what they are willing to agree verbally to do.

Even the courts are not packed against Labor so uniformly as Labor likes to pretend they are. The Supreme Court this year upheld the Wagner labor relations act, and actually countermanded jail sentences which state courts had meted out to communists.

Of course, it is easy enough to sit calmly at a typewriter and advise unionists not to beat up a strike-breaker when a union leader has been beaten up by company guards. These union men aren't early Christian martyrs, and it goes against their grain to turn the other cheek. This is war, and in war you are tempted to use against the enemy the weapons which he uses against you.

Even so, the fact remains that the unions will have a harder fight with public opinion against them, an easier one with the public favorably disposed toward them. It may be true that in the last analysis the result of a strike depends primarily on the economic strength or weakness of the unions. Nevertheless in some strikes the economic balance will teeter so nearly evenly that it may well be tipped one way or the other by the attitude of the public.

Even British Labor found that out, although unions are immeasurably stronger in Great Britain than in the United States. The British general strike of 1926 petered out almost immediately because the British middle class rose in wrath against it; and with all the economic and political strength of the British unions, they couldn't keep Parliament from passing certain anti-strike legislation in the following year.

SCHOOL SYSTEM PRAISED

Rapid River, Mich., July 1—In a letter received recently by L. E. Scott, secretary of the School Board, from L. L. Close, assistant Director of School Relations in the state of Michigan, the Rapid River school system received the maximum amount of praise. The following is a paragraph taken from Mr. Close's letter: "On my recent visit to Rapid River school, I was pleased to observe the excellent school organization which exists there. Despite the fact that the occasion was near the closing of the school year, there was evidence of a carefully planned school administration with consideration being given to the provision of excellent educational facilities. The many commendable features of your school, entitles me to say I am pleased to recommend a continuation of accrediting for Rapid River school."

The accrediting given this school will continue through '38 and '39.

Originally, Plymouth Rock was a solid boulder of greenish syenite weighting about seven tons. It split during an attempt to move it to Town Square during the Revolution, but the upper half later was cemented to the base.

Bryson-LaFave

Of interest to many Escanabans is the account of the wedding of Miss Evelyn Bryson, a niece of Jesse Bryson, former resident of this city, to Norman LaFave at Iron Mountain Wednesday morning, which follows:

"White and pastel shades of green, yellow, pink and orchid and aquamarine were selected by the bride and her attendants for the wedding this morning of Miss Evelyn Bryson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bryson, 508 West F street, to Norman LaFave, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur LaFave, 623 East E street. The ceremony was performed at 8:30 o'clock at St. Joseph's Catholic church, which was transformed into a veritable garden by a profusion of peonies and other flowers.

"The Rev. Fr. Frederick Dorn, Sor. D. S., of Jordan college, Menominee, and the Rev. Fr. Joseph Dufort, pastor of the church, conducted the mass.

"The Castell sisters, accompanied at the ogran by Miss Louise Groulx, played the bridal chorus from Lohengrin as a processional and Mendelssohn's wedding march when the bride and bridegroom left the church. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

"Miss Lorraine LaFave, sister of the bridegroom, was maid-of-honor, and Miss Marion Paquette, of Spalding, cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid. Theodore LaFave, of Milwaukee, was his brother's best man, and Earl Fretchette, of Nadeau, cousin of the bride, was second attendant. Raymond LaFave, of Madison, Wis., brother of the bridegroom, and Joseph LaFave, of Iron Mountain, a cousin, were the ushers. The ring bearer was William Weber, cousin of the bride, and the veil carrier was Arleene Goulette.

Wears White Satin

"The bride wore a modish gown of white satin and a veil with a long train. She carried an all-white bouquet made up of gardenias, roses and sweet peas.

"Miss LaFave was attired in nile green satin trimmed with yellow and a yellow picture hat trimmed with green. Miss Paquette wore aqua blue chiffon with hat to match. They had white accessories and carried identical bouquets of yellow and pink roses.

"The little ring bearer wore an orchid satin suit fashioned with a swallow-tail coat and carried the bride's ring in a calla lily. The train bearer was attired in a long frock of pink chiffon and had a wreath of flowers in her hair.

Reception Is Held

"The wedding breakfast, for the bridal party, and a wedding dinner attended by 40 guests were served at the Harding hotel. A reception was held during the morning at the LaFave home.

"The dinner table was decorated in aqua, orchid and nile green carried out by means of flowers. There were two large, decorated cakes on the table, one of which was presented to the bride's mother, who observed her birthday today.

"The Castell sisters played a program of dinner music.

"Mr. and Mrs. LaFave left at 3 o'clock for Sault Ste. Marie, where Mr. LaFave will be stationed for two weeks as a second lieutenant at the Citizens' Military Training camp. They will return to Iron Mountain about the middle of July and will reside at 327 East Hughitt street.

"Mrs. LaFave, a graduate of the Iron Mountain high school with the class of 1933, is employed in the Iron Mountain store of Montgomery Ward and company.

"The bride was honored at several pre-nuptial showers.

"Out-of-town guests at the wedding were the bridegroom's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. O. B. LaFreniere; Mrs. Clara Hout, Edward Farm and Mr. and Mrs. Edward LaFave, of Ishpeming; Mr. and Mrs. Albert LaFreniere, of Gwinn; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Weisse and son, Jackie, of Pontiac; Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Bryson, of Stambaugh; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bryson, Sr., of Spalding; Mrs. Ralph Sundquist and Louis Weber, of Nadeau."

Janet M. Larson Is the Brade Of George Malcolmson

At a ceremony performed at 6:30 o'clock Wednesday evening in the parsonage of the First Presbyterian church, Janet Marion Larson, daughter of Hugo Larson, became the bride of George Malcomson of this city. The marriage service was read by Rev. Carl E. Berger.

Attending the bride were Miss Mae Larson, her sister, and Miss Jean Michelson. Roger Cholette and Richard Christiansen were the bridegroom's attendants.

A reception at the home of Mrs. Carl Rehnquist, an aunt of the bride, followed the ceremony. The young people are spending their honeymoon in Green Bay and Milwaukee. They will reside in Escanaba.

The bride attended Escanaba high school and has been employed by the Hoyler Baking company. Mr. Malcomson, a graduate of Escanaba high school, is with the Ludington Motors.

The bride was honored at a number of pre-nuptial showers, the hostesses including Miss Berenice Monson, Mrs. Carl Rehnquist and Miss Nellis Olson.

Theatres

THE DELFT

"North of the Rio Grande" and "A Man Betrayed" are on the Delft theatre double feature program today and Saturday.

"Hopalong" Cassidy turns train robber in his latest screen adventure, "North of the Rio Grande," Clarence E. Mulford's action romance. But not for long. It's part of a plot to get to the leader of a band of train robbers and the way the plan works out makes "North of the Rio Grande" one of the most exciting Western stories to reach the screen in a long time. Besides his usual saddlemates, "Windy," played by George Hayes, and "Lucky" portrayed by Russell Hayden, William Boyd, in the title role, is aided by Stephen Morris, Bernadene Hayes, John Rutherford and others.

A new kind of gangster figures in some of the most thrilling sequences of "A Man Betrayed."

The gangsters who have an important but not dominant part in the picture differ from other movie gangsters you've seen in this way: they're human!

Floyd Hughes portrays a virile sort of preacher-hero in "A Man Betrayed," and his characterization too strikes a new note both in movie heroes and in screen ministers. Eddie Nugent and Kay Hughes are the lovers whose happiness is threatened when the former is involved in a murder charge, convicted, and sent off to the chair.

THE MICHIGAN

The drama of war-torn Spain has been made the background for a powerful motion picture plot by Paramount Pictures in "The Last Train From Madrid," the star-studded drama which opens today at the Michigan theatre.

With a capable cast of players headed by Dorothy Lamour, Lew Ayres, Gilbert Roland, Karen Morley, Lionel Atwill and many other skilled players, "The Last Train From Madrid" is the story of ten persons, most of them unknown to each other, whose lives are suddenly thrown together and their destinies worked out during twelve feverish hours in Madrid while the city is under heavy bombardment.

The story centers upon an incident in the Spanish war which took place last winter. During one of the battles the railroad connecting Madrid to Valencia, referred to as "Madrid's life line," had been cut, isolating Madrid from the outside world. A few days later the line had been repaired and the government announced that certain persons would be permitted to leave the city on the first train out which was also to be the last train from the stricken city.

Silver Wedding Party Given For Herman Hawkinsons

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Hawkinson, of 2403 Ludington street, whose silver wedding anniversary was Tuesday, were guests of honor at a delightful evening party arranged in observance of the occasion, held at Merriewood on Green bay, the lodge which Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bloomquist of Bellefonte, Pa., are occupying during the summer.

Social diversions were enjoyed during the evening, followed by a delicious supper. A beautifully decorated wedding cake centered the table and seasonal flowers were used in the decoration of the lodge.

The honor guests were presented with a chest of silver and a lovely silver tray.

Mr. and Mrs. Hawkinson were married in Escanaba and have lived here continuously since that time. Their son, Waldron, and their attendants at the wedding twenty-five years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hawkinson, were among guests at the party.

Morning Service At Earlier Hour

In keeping with a custom established several years ago, the hour of the morning services of the Swedish M. E. church, during the months of July and August, will be advanced from 10:45 to 9 o'clock.

This action was taken by the official board in order that those people wishing to hold outings on Sunday may attend divine services before leaving the city. Tourists and strangers in the city also find the early service an advantage.

The new schedule will take effect this Sunday. The evening service will be at the usual hour, 7:30 o'clock.

When making jellies do not forget to use fruits and berries underripe rather than over-ripe, for better consistency and flavor.

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Ps. 75:1): "Unto thee, O God, do we give thanks, unto thee do we give thanks; for that thy name is near the wondrous works declare."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science Textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 228): "There is no power apart from God. Omnipotence has all-power, and to acknowledge any other power is to dishonor God."

Lemon Clover Rolls

(About 18 rolls)

One-third cup shortening, 2 cups flour, 1-4 cup sugar, 3-4 teaspoon baking soda, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-2 cup milk, 3 tablespoons lemon juice.

Combine milk and lemon juice. Sift dry ingredients together. Work in the shortening. Add milk-lemon juice a little at a time. Turn out on floured board and knead lightly. Shape into small, marble sized balls. Grease muffin tins. Place 3 balls side by side in each muffin tin. Sprinkle with sugar. Bake in hot oven (450 degrees F.) for about 20 minutes.

No summer can be perfect without the appearance of orange sherbet. Try this very simple recipe, and serve it with fresh cocoanut layer cake.

Orange Sherbet

(1 1-2 quarts)

Two cups sugar, 3 cups water, 2 cups orange juice, 1-2 cup lemon juice, 2 egg whites, shiffly beaten.

Combine sugar and water. Boil for 10 minutes, then cool. Add orange and lemon juice. Freeze to mush, using automatic refrigerator or crank freezer. Then add stiffiy beaten egg whites. Continue to freeze.

Orange Creamy Custard

(4 to 6 servings)

Two egg yolks, beaten, 1-3 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons flour, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 1 cup orange juice, 1 cup cream, 1 teaspoon grated orange rind.

Mix ingredients thoroughly. Place in double boiler, stirring frequently until mixture thickens. Cool. In attractive shallow dish, arrange a layer of broken macaroons. Pour in the custard. Cover with this meringue: Beat 2 egg whites until frothy, add 1-4 cup sugar and continue to beat. Do NOT brown in oven.

Apricot Filling

½ cup apricots
½ cup granulated sugar
3 tablespoons flour
1-8 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
½ cup orange juice
2 tablespoons butter

Blend the ingredients. Cook slowly and stir constantly until thick. Cool. Spread on cake.

Corn and Egg Souffle

4 tablespoons butter
6 tablespoons flour
1-3 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon paprika
¼ teaspoon celery salt
¼ teaspoon minced onion
½ teaspoon minced parsley
1½ cups milk
3 egg yolks
2-3 cup corn
3 egg whites, beaten
½ teaspoon baking powder

Melt butter. Add flour and seasonings. When blended add milk and cook until a creamy sauce forms, stirring constantly. Add yolks and beat well. Add rest of the ingredients, mixing lightly. Fill buttered custard cups two-thirds full and bake 25 minutes in a pan of hot water.

Cherry Currant Preserves

8 cups stemmed currants.
8 cups seeded cherries
½ cup water
12 cups granulated sugar

Mix the ingredients and boil quickly for 20 minutes or until the preserves thicken. Pour into sterilized jars and seal immediately.

PILL SLAVE FREED FROM CONSTIPATION

A convincing tribute is paid to Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in this letter from Mr. F. C. Aminsen of Seattle.

"I suffered with constipation for many years and was compelled to use pills every night. Since I got your ALL-BRAN, it works fine. I was so deathly sick of taking pills. Now it is so different. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN works so naturally, and is pleasant to eat."

Inside the body, ALL-BRAN absorbs twice its weight in water, forming a soft mass that gently sponges out the intestines. It also supplies vitamin B to help tone the intestines, and iron for the blood.

You'll enjoy eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. As a cereal with milk or fruits, or in appetizing recipes. Two tablespoonfuls every day are usually enough — three times daily if needed. Sold by all grocers. Made and guaranteed by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

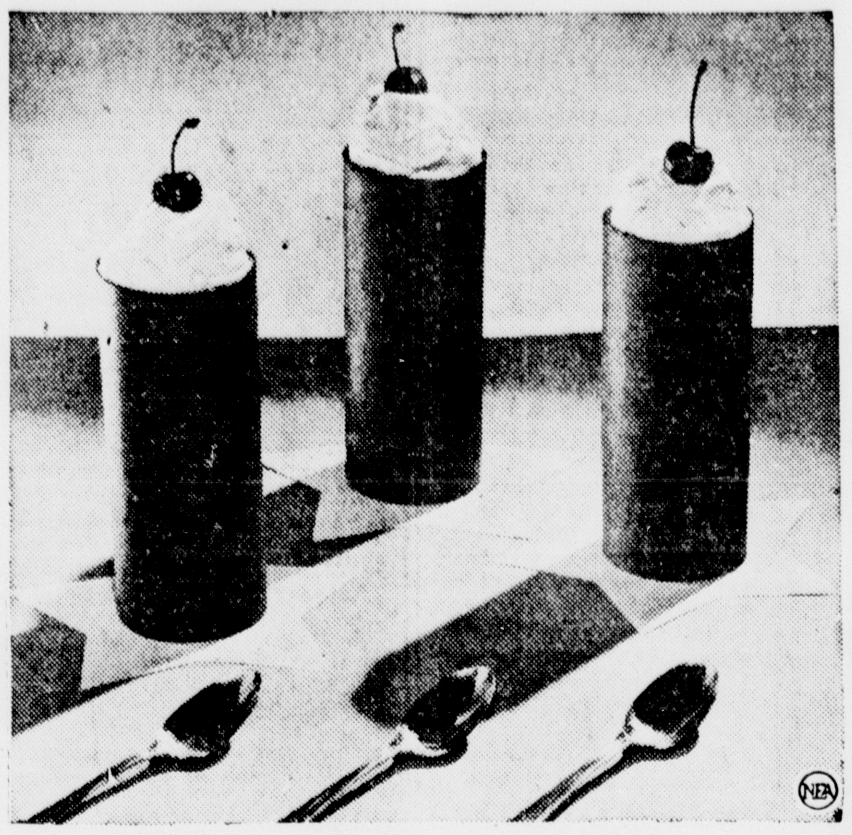
Colorful Ideas for the Fourth



Red ice cream—cherry or raspberry—tastes a lot more patriotic on the Fourth when served in tall parfait glasses slipped into red cylinders of stiff paper. Make a fuse of a ripe cherry with its stem intact.

No Fourth of July will seem patriotic to the youngsters without "pink lemonade" and a large, oh very large, platter of red ice cream. Cherry ice cream will make them explode with delight.

Cherry Ice Cream
(6 servings)

One cup cherry juice, drained from can of sour, pitted very red cherries, 2-3 cup sweetened condensed milk, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, ½ cup cherry pulp measured after being put through food chopper, 1 cup whipping cream.

Blend sweetened condensed milk, cherry juice, and lemon juice thoroughly. Add measured cherry pulp. Chill. Whip cream to custard-like consistency and fold into chilled mixture. Pour into freezing-pan of automatic refrigerator. Place in freezing unit. After mixture is about half frozen, remove from refrigerator. Scrape mixture from sides and bottom of pan. Beat until smooth but not until melted. Smooth out and replace in freezing-tray until frozen for servings.

Pink lemonade is such a tried and true old-fashioned "Fourth" drink that some of you modern caterers may have forgotten the simple formula. For each glass, use 1 lemon, 1 to 3 tablespoons sugar or honey, 1 cup cold water, 2 tablespoons grenadine syrup or crushed raspberry juice, ice. Squeeze lemon, add sugar and stir until dissolved. Add all the other ingredients and call in the youthful patriots. Oh, yes—don't overlook the ginger snaps. It's an old American custom.

Raspberry Ice Cream
(1½ quarts)

Two cups raspberries, crushed, sugar to taste, 1 1-3 cups sweetened condensed milk, 1 cup thin cream, 1½ cups water.

Place crushed berries in bowl. Sweeten with sugar and stand until sugar is completely dissolved. Blend condensed milk, thin cream and water. Add raspberries. Freeze in 2-quart freezer. Remove dasher. Pack in ice and salt for 1 hour after freezing.

For true Fourth of July excitement, serve this red ice cream in tall parfait glasses. Top with cherry and stem to make a fuse and slip into cylinders of stiff red paper. Serve on stars of white and silver paper.

Asparagus Fritters

- 1½ cups flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 2 eggs or 4 yolks
- ½ cup milk
- 1 cup diced cooked asparagus

Mix dry ingredients. Add eggs and milk. Beat well. Add asparagus and drop portions from a tablespoon into deep hot fat. Fry about four minutes or until the fritters are well-browned. Drain and serve plain or with cream or cheese sauce.

To the Shopping Public

The Retail Food Clerks, who have been enjoying along with their employers, a half holiday on Wednesday for the last month, are going to be forced to work unless you come to our aid.

The Reason? There are some stores who refuse to close, and this of course will compel those merchants who have been closing to reopen next week.

It has been said that the Public designates the hours which a store will open or close by their shopping habits.

If this is true, you can help us keep our holiday by informing your grocer that you are willing to do your shopping on Wednesday morning thereby enabling him to close in the afternoon.

This is the first request ever made by the clerks of the merchants, and they have cooperated to the best of their ability and now it is up to you. Will you help us?

BEGIN DRIVE TO COLLECT TAXES

Manley Authorized to Publish Names of Delinquents

City Treasurer A. J. Manley was authorized to begin a drive for collection of delinquent personal taxes and to publish names of delinquents by members of the city council at a regular meeting last night. Councilmen Peter Logan and R. B. Stack again were absent.

According to figures given by City Manager George Bean, collectable delinquent personal taxes amount to $10,187.65 and the council advised him to take whatever steps necessary to push collections. The city charter provides that names of persons delinquent in personal taxes may be published in the newspapers.

The council authorized the city attorney to draw up a new ordinance which will stop trucks from parking on the sidewalks while in the process of loading or unloading.

Authorization was given to deputizing John Rubens, tourist park caretaker, in order that he might stop the practice of local persons of holding picnics in the park, which is essentially a tourist park. The caretaker also was ordered to collect a small fee from those using the park.

A motion was approved to sanction reduction of the WPA crew now laying pipeline to St. Joseph's cemetery in order that some workers might be shifted to other projects more pressing at the present time.

The city manager was authorized to have an audit made of the city books.

Several paving assessment resolutions were approved.

Escanaba Invites Yachtsmen To Visit During Dedication

Jeannette Oates, yachting editor of the Chicago Journal of Commerce, mentions Escanaba as an objective point of boatsmen during the present season. It is expected that a large number of yachts particpating in the Chicago to Mackinac race will visit Escanaba during the yacht basin dedication.

The new Escanaba harbor is being advertised in two successive issues of The Yachtsman, boating magazine.

LEO LAVIOLETTE IS NEW DEPUTY

Replaces Johnston Who Operates Highway Patrol Car

Leo J. Laviolette, county drain commissioner, yesterday began his duties as special officer on the sheriff's department for the summer months. He will be in charge of the night desk.

Laviolette was added to the force for four months to replace Harold Johnston, who has been assigned to the highway patrol recently created by order of the county board of supervisors.

Johnston took the patrol car out yesterday on its first trip. During the week days, he will patrol late afternoons and evenings while over the week-end, it is expected he will work entirely at night. He will spend most of his time patrolling highways near smaller towns and watching for excessive drinking at dance halls.

Action of the board of supervisors in providing for an additional member to the sheriff's department for patrol work followed a series of accidents during the past several weeks, one of which caused the death of a Canadian sailor at Whitefish Hill near Rapid River.

Senator Vandenberg's proposed amendments to the Wagner Act are stirring up no little interest and comment.

A study of the new Murphy-inspired, but modified, State Labor Relations Act, which also aimed to broaden the Wagner Act, and the Vandenberg proposals, reveals few comparable provisions.

Probably the most striking similarity is found in the sections providing new protections for minority groups. The Murphy bill states that sole bargaining powers shall not be given to any union in any plant employing minority groups. The Vandenberg amendment requires that strikes may be called only by a majority vote of all employees, and that the agreement resulting from the collective bargaining be set down in writing.

Hoffman, the most ferocious and volatile against Labor in the House, voiced his approval of the Vandenberg amendments. He said it was about time some legislation was proposed to take care of the interests of the employer, the minority employees, and the public.

I bet Our Family was making whiskey before Eva was born!

—and this is our own Family's Recipe

Those elephants eating peanuts there mightn't be over thirty or forty years old for all I know. Or like as not they'd be a hundred years or so.

I'll bet people living to be as old as elephants would know a whole lot! But the next best thing is to learn from the folks that have gone before you—and that's what we've tried to do in our Family—learn from Pa Wilken all he picked up in his 40 odd years of distilling, just as he learned from Grandpa Wilken what he knew about making fine whiskey. And this personal Family's Recipe of ours has got everything all of us learned concerning making whiskey mild and tasty. Yes sir—everything!

Inquest Scheduled In Death Of Boy, 3

Newberry, Mich., July 1. — An inquest will be held sometime today into the death of three-year-old Roscoe Edward Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jett Smith, who was killed almost instantly when he was struck late Wednesday afternoon by a car driven and owned by Miss Martha Dana, 26-year-old school teacher of Dundee. Miss Dana and a friend, Miss Clarabelle Biglow, office worker of Dundee, were spending their vacation in the Upper Peninsula. They had driven north from the Sault Tuesday, had been to Grand Marais and were on their way to Blaney Park where they expected to spend the night. On M-77 midway between Grand Marais and Seney the Smith child ran into the road, crossed to the far side and then started back again. Miss Dana struck the child on the west side of the road, ran down through a ditch and stopped a short distance beyond. Realizing that the child was seriously injured she brought him with his parents and small sister to Newberry. The child was dead when received at the local hospital. State police investigated the case and questioned all concerned until a late hour this morning. Sheriff Pelletier and a coroner from Alger will arrive here today to hold an inquest.

Automobile Dives Into Tahquamenon

Newberry, Mich., July 1. — A car driven by Lawrence Authier of Sault Ste. Marie took a nose dive into the Tahquamenon river at an early hour this morning when the driver was unable to make the turn on the bridge. The car landed nose down in two or three feet of water. Authier and the two men riding with him smashed a rear window and managed to escape, one of them receiving a severe cut on the legs from the window glass. The accident happened on M-123 a short distance north of Eckerman. State police visited the scene. The car was pulled from the river by a wrecker and taken to the Sault.

Who Owns Steer? Trooper Wonders

Newberry, Mich., July 1. — J. D. Wood of this county did business with J. Q. Thompson, cattle buyer from Cheboygan on Wednesday, selling him a number of beef cattle. The two men were driving the cattle from the pasture to the Wood farm along M-28, when, about three miles west of the Pelletier Corners there came along Ernest Mitchell of Gould City driving his sedan and towing a truck, going about 30 miles an hour. Just at that moment one of the steers elected to leap in front of the Mitchell car, which struck it and knocked it out of the road. The truck, being unable to stop, smashed the rear of the car. Both car and truck stopped suddenly but the steer kept on going. At a late hour last night it was still not found. Mr. Thompson had bargained to purchase that steer for $53 although no money had changed hands. Now the question is: Does Mr. Wood still own the absent animal or does it together with the present and visible animals belong to Mr. Thompson? Corporal William Irish of the Newberry detachment of state police investigated the accident but made no effort to settle the question.

Sheehan Issues Plea For Safety On July Fourth

Newberry, Mich., July 1. — In a plea for a safe and sane celebration of Independence Day in Newberry, Trooper Ralph Sheehan, of the safety division of the Michigan state police, issued the following statement today:

"The immortal lines of Francis Scott Key, taken from the national anthem, 'And the rockets red glare, and bombs bursting in air, gave proof through the night that our flag was still there,' on the eve of another Independence Day celebration might well be paraphrased: And the burned and crippled children, the blood-smeared highways, and the victims of drownings, gives proof through the years that our patriotism still lives. Unquestionably abundant, but rather dubious proof. It is regretable that the day set aside to commemorate a most significant event in our American history has become a day featuring serious mishaps to our people, dominated by three major causes, fire works, traffic accidents, and drownings.

Despite the fact that fireworks, that are likely to maim or poison the users, are prohibited in Michigan by law, except for public display under the direction of skilled technicians, much material of this sort finds itself into the hands of children. The net results of this bootlegging of fireworks are serious burns, the loss of some member of the body, and in some instances, death.

A vast majority of our citizens realize the dangers which accompany Independence Day celebrations. The average citizen begins the day with a lecture to members of his family regarding the precautionary measures to be taken to insure safety while attending the celebration or participating in games. Likewise, he warns them against the dangers which lurk at the beaches, such as going into the water too soon after eating. The Red Cross swimming division recommends two hours lapsed time between lunching and swimming, as well as the thoughtless error of poor swimmers going into deep water.

However, this same citzen, who so carefully instructed his family concerning the dangers of fireworks, games, and beach safety, as a driver of an automobile, may have failed to instruct himself of the ever present hazards on the highways, which are more predominant on a day of relaxation and celebration. He fails to recognize that irregular meals, long hours of exercize, perhaps imbibing a bit too freely, plus the general excitement of the day, has materially effected his driving ability. Consequently, this citizen who has thought that he has barricated his family and himself from the dangers of Independence Day celebration finds himself the victim of a traffic accident.

To date the citizens of Luce county have one of the finest accident records of any in the state, and it is the sincere hope of the state police that, while they may have a most enjoyable week-end of celebration, their accident record will remain unmarred."

STRIKE NOT SETTLED

Menominee — Slight progress has been made in attempts to settle the strike at the Lloyd Manufacturing company plant in joint conferences between company officials and Menominee Furniture Workers' Union employes held yesterday and today, according to William Houston, commissioner of conciliation with the U. S. department of labor.

Houston indicated that unless some progress is made at a conference this afternoon he will leave for Gladstone tomorrow morning.

Conferences between company and union representatives have been held in Houston's room at Hotel Menominee. Houston reported the company officials as still holding out against demands of the union for closed shop and pay increases, points on which previous labor negotiations snagged prior to the strike on Tuesday, June 22.

Mrs. Duane Leonard, 77, Lived Here for 55 Years

Mrs. Duane (Azubiah Catherine) Leonard, a resident of Manistique for 55 years, passed away yesterday morning at the family home, 344 North Cedar street. Death was caused by complications and followed an illness of several months duration. Mrs. Leonard would have been 77 years of age July 20.

She was born at St. David's, Ontario, Canada on July 20, 1860 and came to Michigan with her parents when she was four years of age settling first in LaPeer county.

Crops Perilled By Drought Conditions

Drought conditions during the month of June have perilled the farm crops in this region, Schoolcraft county farmers have reported, but adequate rainfall in the near future will save the situation.

One outstanding farmer said yesterday, "There's no use crying before we're hurt but unless we get rain soon, the hay and grain crops will be reduced to a point where there'll be no use threshing this year. We won't be hurt, though, if we get the precipitation we need soon."

Returns Money and Avoids Jail Term

Arrested for taking $21 which belonged to a mill employe at Wells, Chester Taskey of Traunik was held in the county jail here Wednesday but was released when he made restitution and the Wells man asked that prosecution be dropped.

The money was owned by Frank Crinyar of Wells who dropped his wallet containing the money in Taskey's truck.

Of an aggregate population of 127,341,300 in the United States in 1935, there were 64,161,000 males and 63,180,300 females.

PROFIT SHOWN IN WATER DEP'T

Pumpage Reduced Due to Meters, City Manager Reports

Since the installation of water meters water pumped at the Manistique pumping station for the last fiscal year totalled 306,602,200 gallons, or 22.9 per cent less than for the year 1935, a report prepared by City Manager P. H. Beauvais has revealed. In the year 1935 a total of 397,744,000 gallons of water were pumped.

The reduction in water pumpage, made possible by the meter system, represents a savings of $1,539.40 for power used at the pumping station. The power costs for pumping water in 1935 totalled $7,532 and for the last fiscal year power costs at the pumping station were $5,992.60, a savings of 20.4 per cent. In 1935 the cost of pumping water through the station meter was $25.50 per million gallons but this cost dropped to $19.50 per million gallons, or 23.5 per cent less, for the past fiscal year.

In his report the city manager explained the sizeable reduction in water pumpage power costs per million gallons for the past fiscal year was made possible because of the fact that lower water consumption resulted in fewer times that the water were started and stopped. The storting torques on the water pumps require more energy than is consumed during the operation of the pumps, and this fact is important in the reduced power costs, the city manager pointed out.

95 per cent Metered Now

The water meters, of course, were not in operation during the entire fiscal year as the installations did not begin until the middle of April and the work spread through the summer. At present all industrial and commercial services are metered and domestic services are 95 per cent metered. About 75 domestic services are not yet metered because these consumers are procuring their water from long runs of very small pipes and cannot be metered until larger mains are installed.

An interesting feature of the report is the disclosure that if water service charges had been continued on flat rates, the estimated deficit for the past fiscal year would have been $3,920.62, whereas the water department actually showed a profit of $858.45 for the fiscal year. The deficit for the year 1935 was $2,322.52.

The city manager's report revealed that the per capita consumption of water in Manistique is still far too high, due to the faulty mains and fire hydrants. Beauvais reported that considerable time will be devoted during the present fiscal year to locate sources of these water losses.

In the city manager's report to the council in 1936, estimated necessary revenue to operate the water department was fixed at $23,042.30. Based on the delivery of 98,359,000 gallons of water to consumers, estimated revenue totalled $21,684, figured at $5,100 for commercial services, $15,420 for domestic services and $1,164 for industrial services. Since the yearly pumpage was estimated at 150,000,000 gallons, there would still be available for revenue 21,641,000 gallons after deducting 20 per cent for loss in mains and [illegible] in pumpage. This extra, if charged, would have added $1,731.28, or a grand total of anticipated revenue of $23,415.28.

Actual figures for the past year showed a gross revenue of $24,505.20, as follows: domestic flat rate revenue $4,219.36; domestic metered revenue $14,258.06; commercial revenue $3,893.91 and industrial revenue $2,133.87. Water rates for the year have been reduced by the Manistique city council, providing for lower minimum rates for domestic consumers.

Tourist Trailer Park Dedication Will Be July 25

A committee appointed by the Manistique Lions club to draft preliminary plans for dedication of Manistique's tourist trailer park, recently completed as a WPA project, announced yesterday that the dedication will be held Sunday, July 25.

The public will be invited to attend the dedication and participate in a community picnic at the tourist trailer park. An entertainment program will be arranged by the Lions club as part of the dedication.

"Fingers Crossed", No Fires Reported

Manistique conservation officers and forest service officials figuratively "kept their fingers crossed" yesterday against the possibility of fires in the forests of this district.

Lack of adequate rainfall and high hazard conditions in the forests generally result in a wave of destructive fires but at noon yesterday no fires had been reported. Officials are hoping for a general heavy rain to alleviate the situation. In the meantime, all tourists, campers, fishermen and motorists are asked to be particularly careful with matches and cigarettes in wooded areas.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Labombard and family returned yesterday to their home in Flint after visiting here with Mr. and Mrs. Albert Multhaupt and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Multhaupt.

On the Record

Senator Vandenberg's Amendment

Dorothy Thompson

The only possible position for any one who believes in democracy and in liberalism to take now, in the industrial struggle, is to support Senator Vandenberg's bill to amend the Wagner Labor Relations act. The bill safeguards the rights of labor to organize, provides that one labor election need not impose a union for all time, gives both employers and employees the option of calling such elections, provides that privileged strikes cannot be called without a majority vote of all employees, and that breaches of contract suspend the right of representation.

It also establishes a "code of fair practices" for unions, prohibits compulsory assessments for political purposes, outlaws coercoin and physical violence—by either side, and insists that officers and agents of a union must be American citizens.

* * *

The bill parallels proposals which have been made in this column for months. That it is timely no one will question. It is long overdue. For either we are going to get a labor act which is in harmony with American public opinion, or we are going to get even worse chaos than at present exists.

* * *

What American public opinion is, no one need longer doubt. Governor Davey and Governor Murphy are being forced to respond to it. Governor Davey has modified the policy of Washington for just one reason! He has become aware of what the communities which he represents, think. Governor Murphy is also, apparently, beginning to be aware that action has got to be taken against unbridled license on the part of the C. I. O. It has got to be taken to protect the very things for which the Wagner Labor Relations act ostensibly stands: In dustrial democracy, and the rights of workers.

* * *

John L. Lewis is, of all people, the man who—if he is sincere—should welcome the clarification of the law. Mr. Lewis has admitted on numerous occasions that he does not have his cohorts in hand, that inflamed with enthusiasm, young and untrained leaders are bolting the union discipline. Mr. Lewis disclaims all responsibility for the Saginaw strike which cut off power from 200 communities, and for innumerable other "wild" strikes. Therefore, he should welcome a higher discipline: The discipline of law.

* * *

He should welcome it also because the growth of vigilantism is menacing in the extreme; menacing in the extreme; menacing to all of us; especially menacing to him. That there would be vigilantism of growing fury if conditions continued as they were, if lawlessness was condoned and tolerated by the Federal authorities and its henchmen, also has been predicted for months in this column. Now it is here. Newspaper men report from Michigan that Ku-Kluxism is growing rapidly; that baseball bats, rifles and shotguns are becoming part of the standard equipment of shops, restaurants and bars. We are informed that the Ford service squad has spies in the C. I. O. masking as ardent unionists and that the company unions, or anti-C. I. O. unions, also contain many C. I. O. members. Spies are invariably agents provocateurs.

* * *

The American Legion forms the backbone of the vigilante movement. But every conceivable "patriotic" organization rallies to their defense. The Friends of the New Germany, whose conception of democracy is Mr. Hitler's, are supporting the vigilantes. Mr. Gerald K. Smith, one of the ablest rabble rousers of the country, is making hay. Father Coughlin is prepared to align his tongue and his organization on the side of a neo-Fascist movement, and the Nazi government is sending one of its most unprincipled propagandists, Baron von Killinger, as Consul to San Francisco. The State Department ought to say: "Persona non grata."

* * *

And W. P. A. teachers of "adult education," paid by all Americans, are teaching classes organized by the C. I. O. the tactics of trade unionism.

* * *

It has already reached the stage in Michigan, where to be effective at all, the citizen has got to take sides in a fight which, whoever wins, threatens to ruin democratic government based on law. And yet the overwhelming mass of the American people—I say it without the slightest hesitation—hate the terrorism of both extremes, want the establishment of principles, want a just law which both Mr. Ford and Mr. Lewis must acknowledge; want the instruments of force exclusively in the hands of legal and public authorities; and want those authorities to represent the law and not some personal authority or party policy.

* * *

It is not too late for that spirit to win in this struggle, provided that the members of the Congress of the United States act according to their consciences and horse sense.

CHAPTER VII

Jacob Walz, "the old Dutchman," acquired ownership of an extremely rich mine in Superstition Mountain some time in the 1880's, the Arizona legends say. He was an eccentric man with a long white beard, fierce of countenance, massive of frame: a drifter whose background only he knew. He himself admitted killing three Mexicans in order to steal their bonanza, Mexicans who were descendants of the original Spanish discoverers of the mine. But he worked the property alone.

Walz would come periodically into the village of Phoenix, plunk down a bag of amazing nuggets and forthwith drink all the liquor he could hold. Then he'd come out on Washington street and yell like a rebel.

"Waugh!" he'd shout. "I'm a two-legged hellion outen the hills, and I'll kill any damned fool who says I ain't!" He was not exaggerating.

People tried to pump him about his rich mine, but he wouldn't talk even when drunk. Some tried to follow him to the mountain and he slipped back at night and killed them. Others kept bedeviling him trying to get a share of his wealth, and he was afraid they might murder him for it.

One day, therefore, he concealed his mine opening. He covered the hole with ironwood logs as large as his burros could drag, then piled rocks and dirt over them. He obliterated all traces of his camp and came back to Phoenix to wait until interest in his gold store should subside. He told these things himself, but he died unexpectedly without definitely revealing the mine's location. It was, he did say, somewhere near Weaver's Needle, the higest peak in Superstition, and not far from a palo verde tree with a pointing arm.

* * *

Stuart Blake knew that bit of history. When he rode out from Superstition Lodge that morning he decided to go up near the base of Weaver's Needle and scout around from there. The shortest route was six miles in, with much climbing, but his horse was a hardy one. He recognized the Needle about midday, not more than a mile from him.

He had never seen a more beautiful region, never imagined one as rugged and wild. He wondered where the ironwood logs might lie concealed. It intrigued him to think of the fun and excitement if he should happen to find the Dutchman's gold; he pictured himself telling Carolee Colter all about it first. And telling Nina. And his friends back in Chicago. Stuart Blake was young and romantic enough to enjoy day dreaming.

His attention was caught suddenly by hieroglyphics etched on big rocks near him. They were strange picture writings, evidently of Indian origin, animal and human forms and odd circular designs. They were interesting but he couldn't decipher them. He wondered if they were important to the mine.

It was well past noon but he hadn't thought to eat the lunch he brought, nor even to take a drink from his saddle canteen. The surroundings were too impressive, and he was thinking of the palo verde tree with the pointing arm. His horse was puffing, so he dismounted to let the animal rest, dropping the reins as cowboys do. He walked a few hundred feet, climbed up over a series of boulders which gave him a view in every direction for many miles. Only the Needle was higher. The breeze whipped him, snapping his silk bandana. The sun shone intensely. He studied the landscape for a quarter hour or so, grew thirsty and climbed back down. When he reached the picture rocks again, his horse was gone.

* * *

At first he was astonished, then alarmed.

He remembered the experience with Carolee. Here, though, the brushy growth was negligible. He remembered to look for tracks. Sure enough, they led off, and were easily followed.

The hoof marks went 200 yards or so then suddenly disappeared at a cliff edge. Stuart peered over. "Good Lord!" he breathed.

The horse was dead—literally smashed—on the rocks several hundred feet below.

Stuart hastened to circle around and down to the beast, but there was nothing he could do. How could a mountain horse have slipped so fatally? Stuart realized the seriousness of his situation. He was a long rugged hike from the Lodge. But he wasn't as helpless as when he and Carolee became lost for a while; he had thought to bring water this time. Water!

Quickly he looked. The canteen was under the dead animal and the saddle. By straining he extracted it, but it had been smashed in the fall and was quite empty now.

Diabolically, at that instant, thirst seemed doubled within him. (Many another man has experienced that sensation, when water is discovered gone.)

"This is getting fantastic!" Stuart told himself. "All that hooey about Superstition Mountain—and yet I get lost with a girl, dad gets shot at, and now I'm in a new spot. I'll be seeing the Thunder Gods next!" He was confused at the train of events as well as concerned for his own safety.

* * *

He had good reason to be concerned, even more than he realized. Arizona air is "thin," dry. Wet clothes in back yards dry in 20 minutes. Meat is cured quickly or "jerked" simply by hanging outside on a string. The aridity is even greater in desert altitudes such as Superstition provides. Rainfall is rare, totaling but five or six inches in a year, often less. Canteens are standard equipment with every man who works outdoors. Sun and thirst can cause real suffering in four hours, delirium in six or eight, death in 24.

Stuart didn't know all those details, but he was beginning to suspect them. By 4 p. m. he was ill. His tongue seemed double in size, and he was seeing his first tantalizing mirages, always of lakes and streams. Yet he felt rational.

He fired his pistol repeatedly but his only answers were mocking echoes.

He tried chewing the scanty green leaves, and once he sucked some moist earth that he found in a deep shady gorge, but that only made him vomit and caused his mouth to bleed.

The air turned sharply cold after nightfall. The wind changed, too. Stuart wondered where the intense sun heat had so suddenly dissipated. But the night wind seemed no more humid. He was shivering. Once—he had been walking for hours—he thought he heard Carolee Colter's laughter. He looked up suddenly and saw nothing, and knew then that he was beginning to lose control.

His collar had seemed tight earlier and he had unbuttoned it. He had thrown the neckerchief away. Now his throat seemed even more constricted and he tore off his entire shirt, panting a bit at the exertion.

That made him realize his semi-hysteria, so he calmed for a while. He could see fairly well by the stars. He kept going in what he believed to be the back-trail direction, down the rocky slope that would lead into Apache Canyon, thence home. But sometimes he climbed, too. He wasn't sure.

It was late when he decided finally to sleep. He moved, partly by instinct, toward a low slip of rock that would afford protection from the wind, and crawled under it.

Something went "whs-s-s-s, a-a-a-a, whs-s-s-s-s-s-s" at him, and he could see moving forms. He saw that they were babies, knew them for lion kittens. He had stumbled onto a panther den. He didn't remember about panthers, but he imagined they ate men. The mother cat would be coming home.

He backed away, and soon he stumbled onto some buck brush. He fell and it was soft, and so utterly exhausted was he that he just lay there.

All Ready for Opening of Jubilee Here Saturday

PAGEANT TO BE GIVEN NIGHTLY

Final Rehearsal Will Be Held Tonight at Marble Field

Everything is in readiness for the official opening of Gladstone's Golden Jubilee tomorrow night at Marble Field when the Story of Gladstone, a huge and colorful spectacle of 400 people unfolds its interesting events of the city now fifty years old.

Properties by the truck load are being taken to the Pageant set—the field has been brilliantly lighted and the large stage made ready to care for the many different kinds of portrayals. A newly purchased public address system has been installed that will carry the narration to those seated in the stadium, the capacity of which has been doubled, and ample parking facilities will take care of the automobiles.

An exact replica of the old steamer Lotus has been built under the direction of Roland Hale and promises to provide one of the most entertaining of the thirteen episodes. Perfect weather has enabled the cast to rehearse daily at the Pageant grounds and a last full rehearsal will be held tonight beginning at 7 o'clock with the Queen, Miss Columbia, and the Court of Honor in attendance. In the event of rain rehearsal will be held in the high school gymnasium.

Tickets and reserved seats may be secured at the Pageant grounds each day until Monday at 5:30.

BY FREDERICK GARDNER
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, July 1 (AP)—A mid-year rally in the stock market carried far enough today to give the second half of 1937 an auspicious sendoff.

Convinced recent pessimism had been overdone, many traders retired from the bear side and shifted into steels, oils, copper and miscellaneous industrial shares.

With a three-day recess in store over the Fourth of July, some traders were tempted to cash profits, but gains of fractions to around 2 points predominated at the finish.

A few soft spots were uncovered as offerings increased in the afternoon, notably Chrysler and American Telephone.

After a brisk move, steels also yielded part of their gains before the finish.

Improvement in sentiment was marked by another broad rise in bonds, notably low priced rails. Security markets seemed to pay little attention to a drop of nearly one-third of a cent in the French franc to around 3.84 cents in wake of France's suspension of gold payments earlier in the week.

With all groups participating to some degree, extension of the rally from the June lows lifted the Associated Press average of 60 stocks .3 of a point to 64.2. Transfers totalled 671,340 shares against 691,750 yesterday.

Trading did not broaden out much on the rally and many brokers, pressed to meet overhead expenses, found hope in any exchange committee report proposing an increase in commission rates. Meanwhile, the exchange announced a holiday Saturday to permit a long week-end over Independence Day.

Chrysler finished at 95½, down 2 3-8. American Telephone was off 1 at 165¾. Wheat futures were up 4 7-8 to 7 5-8 and corn 2 7-8 to 3½ a bushel. Cotton converted earlier losses into net gains of 20 to 40 cents a bale.

The British pound advanced 5-8 of a cent to $4.94 3-8.

Profit Taking Cuts Curb Market Gains

New York, July 1 (AP)—The curb market worked higher today but profit taking in the last hour cut into gains.

There were some fairly wide swings in selected issues, but most advances were fractions. New Jersey Zinc added 2 at 75 and Consolidated Gas of Baltimore was 1½ higher at 67½.

Utilities turned in a mixed performance with American Gas & Electric up ½ at 31½, while Electric Bond & Share by the same fraction at 15 1-8.

Gainers in the general list included Aluminum oC. of America, 138½, St. Regis Paper, 7 7-8, Sherwin Williams, 123½, Gulf Oil, 54, and International Petroleum, 34¾.

Off a bit were Northern States Power "A," 19½, Hudson Bay, 28, Consolidated Copper, 9 5-8, and Hollinger, 11 1-8.

Transactions totalled 182,000 shares against 191,000 yesterday.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, July 1—Overwhelmed by a sudden outburst of feverish general buying, wheat soared 8 cents a bushel today with a speed and wildness recalling the world war.

The excited rush to purchase wheat was due principally to alarm over prospects that drought damage to crops in Canada, coupled with black rust ravages in the United States, may bring about acute shortage of supplies to meet a big increase of estimated needs of wheat exports to Europe from this country.

News relative to gravely strained relations between Russian and Japan added also a touch of war scare to operations in the wheat pit.

Latest authoritative figures were that the United States would be called upon to furnish Europe 96,000,000 bushels of wheat this season, as against nothing last year. It was pointed out that this quota from the United States might be greatly enlarged if Canada should prove unable to supply 136,000,000 bushels expected from there.

At the close, Chicago wheat futures were 4 7-8 to 7 5-8 cents above yesterday's finish. July 1.26 to 1.26½, September 1.25, December 1.26 7-8, corn 2 7-8 to 3½ up, July 1.28 to 1.28¼, September 1.13 7-8 to 1.14, December 81 7-8 to 82, oats 1 7-8 to 2¼ advanced, September 39 3-8 to 39½, and rye showing 1 cent to 4½ cents bulge, September 91 3-4. Provisions results were 7 to 22 cents higher.

In as much as North America is the only material source of world supplies of wheat in the next six or seven months, the market took fire from reports that damage to wheat in Illinois, Indiana and various other districts, notably around Springfield, Ill., would be 50 percent or more.

Ordinarily five cents a bushel is the limit of an immediate advance or decline of prices, but the current month is an exception, and eight cents is allowed. As today's trade was concentrated chiefly in the current month, July wheat skyrocketed to the extreme allowable limit, and reached $1.27 a bushel with the close ½ cent under the top.

Corn, oats and rye all took their cue from the action of wheat.

Provisions reflected a rise of hog values as well as the flight of grains.

BY STEPHEN DICKINSON
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, July 1 (AP)—Wide gains on smaller turnover characterized dealin gin the bond market today and brought sharp improvement in the railroad and utility groups.

While all sections participated in the runup, carrier liens pointed the advance, ably backed up by utilities. The Associated Press averages for 20 rails jumped .7 of a point to 91.7, while the 10 utilities rose .4 of a point to 96.2.

The improvement in domestic corporates on smaller volume—today's turnover totalling $8,166,000, face value, for all bonds against $8,313,000 Wednesday—was interpreted by dealers as showing a further drying up of offerings.

Low and medium priced carriers attracted the most active demand.

U. S. governments also closed a little higher with gains ranging from 1-32 of a point to 7-32. Dealing was light in this section.

The foreign quarter produced more gains than losses, although most of the betterment was in South American loans. Buenos Aires 4 1-8s and 4 3-8, Colombia 6s and Uruguay 6s gained fractions to a point or more.

Sox Pound Detroit, 15 to 8; Cubs Tame Cards

SLUGFEST LED BY JIM DYKES

Four Detroit Pitchers Pounded for Even Score of Hits

Chicago, July 1 (AP)—The Chicago White Sox celebrated manager Jim Dykes' 1937 debut at third base today by banging four Detroit pitchers for 20 hits and a 15-8 victory. The 41 year old Dykes, whose previous participation in his 20th big league season, had been limited to two futile pinch-hitting appearances, himself led the slugfest with a double, three singles and a walk for a perfect day. He drove in three of the runs.

The victory gave the Chicagoans the series, two games to one, and increased their second place margin to two games.

Cletus Poffenberger, rookie right-hander getting his first major league starting chance on his 21st birthday; Roxy Lawson, George Gill and Schoolboy Rowe were all victims of the Sox barrage.

Jack Hayes homered for the Sox, while Rudy York hit a consolation round tripper for the Tigers.

Driving Poffenberger from the mound with a four run blast in the third inning and pounding Lawson for four more in the fifth and still another quartet in the sixth, the Sox gave Vernon Kennedy a 12-1 lead toward his season's seventh victory. Kennedy, however, weakened after running out a triple in the fifth and after he walked the first batter in the seventh, he was touched for five straight hits and the Tigers scored six runs in the inning before Clint Brown, ace Sox relief artist, restored order.

Walker Injured

Gerald Walker pulled a leg muscle in the fourth inning and Jo-Jo White went to center field, Pete Fox shifting to Walker's place in the right garden.

The Sox got four runs each in the third, fifth and sixth innings and three in the seventh.

Radcliff started the third with a single, then Poffenberger tossed out Kreevich. F. Walker tripled, scoring Radcliff. The bases were loaded when Bonura and Appling walked. Walker scored and Bonura moved to third when Hayes flied out. Dykes' double scored Bonura and Appling, and Lawson replaced Poffenberger. Sewell lined out. York's fifth homer of the season was the Tigers' first run of the game and the only one in the fourth inning.

Appling opened the Chicago half with a single and stole second, then scored when Hayes got his home run. Rykes and Sewell singled and all runners were safe when Kennedy Sacrificed and Lawson's throw failed to get Dykes at third. Dykes scored and Sewell took third when Radcliff hit into a double play. Kreevich singled Sewell home and F. Walker fouled out to end the frame.

Rally Nets 6 Runs

The White Sox half of the sixth started with a single by Bonura, then Appling and Hayes popped. Dykes singled, sending Bonura to third. Sewell singled to score Bonura and Kennedy's triple tallied Dykes and Sewell. Acting Manager Del Baker sent Gill to the mound to relieve Lawson. Radcliff scored Kennedy with a single, then Kreevich forced Radcliff.

The Tigers started a rally in the seventh that produced six runs. York walked and went to third as Tebbetts singled. Gill's double scored York and sent Tebbetts to third. Fox doubled, scoring Tebbetts and Gill. Rogell singled to score Fox. Clifton ran for Rogell. Gehringer came up with a single and Brown, replaced Kennedy on the rubber. When Appling fumbled Greenberg's grounder and then threw into the dugout Clifton scored, Gehringer took third and Hank reached second. White walked, filling the bases. Goslin fanned and White forced York at second, Gehringer scoring. Tebbetts walked and agian the bags were loaded. Bolton, batting for Gill, fanned for the final out.

Rowe pitched as the Sox came up in the seventh. F. Walker opened with a single, Bonura fouled out and Appling singled. Hayes singled, scoring Walker, and Dykes scored Appling with a one-bagger. Sewell forced Dykes. Brown singled, scoring Hayes, and Radcliff forced Brown for the last putout.

NOT BADLY HURT

Philadelphia, July 1 (AP)—George Selkirk's shoulder injury today in the New York Yankees-Athletics ball game wasn't much, hospital authorities said tonight.

Selkirk, Yankee outfielder, was hurt making a shoe-string catch of Jock Rothrock's liner in the seventh inning. He had the injury looked at at the Presbyterian hospital and left tonight with his teammates for Washington.

Tom Farr Of England Louis' Next Opponent

BY EDDIE BRIETZ

New York, July 1 (AP)—Indications tonight were that Tommy Farr and not Max Schmeling will be Joe Lewis' opponent in the negro's first defense of his newly-won heavyweight title.

Failing to get a decision from Schmeling, one way or the other, Promoter Mike Jacobs today closed with Farr by trans-Atlantic telephone to come here and fight the Brown Bomber in one of the New York ball parks early in September.

"I wanted Schmeling," said Jacobs, "but apparently Max doesn't want the fight. Anyway, he will not reply to my cables, so I am going ahead with Farr."

The Welshman, recent conqueror of both Ben Foord and Max Baer, can have 20 per cent of the net gate for his end, or a flat guarantee, the amount of which Jacobs would not disclose.

"I have cabled him to be ready to sail in two weeks. In the meantime, my attorney, Sol Strauss, now on his way to Europe, will see Farr and his manager and have contracts signed."

Farr's acceptance of the Louis fight means he definitely is not going through with his proposed bout with Schmeling in London, September 1. This go was to have been advertised as for the "world's heavyweight championship."

While Jacobs and his assistants were keeping the wires to London busy, Joe Jacobs, Schmeling's American manager, received a cable from "der schlager" saying September 1 had been selected as the date for the Farr bout and for Jacobs to sail for England not later than August 1.

Jacobs professed to be as much in the dark as anyone else as to the reason for Max's apparent lack of interest in another shot at the heavyweight title.

"All I know is what I read in the cables," Joe said.

A September title bout here will not cause Louis to abandon his planned invasion of England next month. Negotiations are now under way for him to go to London and fight Jack Doyle, Foord or Len Harvey.

"Sure, he'll go over and pick up the $75,000 guarantee," said Director-General Mike Jacobs. "The bout will give him a warm-up for the Farr fight."

IRISHMAN READY

Chicago, July 1. (AP)—Jack Doyle, the Irish heavyweight, said tonight that "only a few details have to be ironed out" before he and Champion Joe Louis are matched for a bout in London this summer by Mike Jacobs, New York promoter.

Doyle, who stopped here briefly on his way to the west coast on business, said he talked with Jacobs yesterday and that he planned to return to London to begin training if the match definitely is scheduled. He estimated such a bout would draw $1,500,000 at Wembley stadium.

Negotiations have been under way by Jacobs to have Louis meet either Doyle, Ben Foord or Len Harvey in London with the possibility Louis will meet the British titleholder, Tommy Farr, in this country next September.

CRYSTAL FALLS SET FOR ESKY

Tail-Enders Prepare for Heavy Assault on Gladstone Field

Crystal Falls, July 1—While the last two defeats have been bitter pills to take because of their morale-cracking endings, the Crystal Falls baseball team has put them behind and is energetically preparing for the last contest of the first half against Escanaba Sunday, and the second leg of the season which opens the following Sunday.

The breaks have been consistently against the locals but they find solace in the conviction that "the worm is bound to turn soon." If they receive half as many breaks during the next round as their opponents have in the first half, the Falls players believe they will be in the race from start to finish.

The outlook for the future is brightened by the likelihood the Falls will have four competent pitchers, working from both the port and starboard sides of the mound. Gene Selmo performed well in his first league encounter last Sunday. Hugh Orphan, who is expected here Saturday from Newberry, comes with a high rating from fans who have seen him work.

A disturbing factor, however, has been the inability of the team to hit opportunely, as illustrated by the 12 men marooned on base against South Range. But the locals have much latent power which may be unleashed at any time.

FINE CARD HAS BEEN SIGNED UP

Three Five Round Bouts Will Feature Show at Coliseum

Three five-round matches will be the feature attraction of the boxing show which will be presented at the Coliseum Wednesday night by the Delta county boxing association.

The final wind-up between Banjo James Cole of Detroit and Frank Duket of Marinette, will be precided by two main preliminaries between boys of known calibre from this vicinity.

In the first, Henry Beauchamp, hard hitter from Flat Rock, will tangle with Rivard, popular Stephenson boy. Beauchamp will be making his final amateur fight. He has been signed with the Richie stables of Milwaukee. Both Beauchamp and Rivard have displayed their talents before local fans previously and always have pleased them.

In the second main go, Babe Kell, of the fighting Kells of Wilson, will battle Johnny Haindl, speedy Cooks boy. Here again, both boys have fought in Escanaba before and always have proven popular. Both are good mixers and like to fight—two good signs toward a great match.

Four other matches, pitting popular boxers from this region with outstate fighters, have been lined up, assuring fans of an evening of fighting.

Victory, 8 and 6, Makes 5 Straight For New Yorkers

New York, July 1. (AP)—Wally Berger came through in the clutch today, clouting a pinch-homer with two out in the ninth inning and two mates on base to give the Giants an 8 to 6 victory over the Phillies.

The homer, hit off Syl Johnson, who relieved Bucky Walters as Berger came to bat, made it a clean sweep for the Giants in the three-game series with the Phils, and stretched the New Yorkers' winning streak to five straight.

THIRD STRAIGHT HARD TO TAKE

Six and Three Defeat Makes St. Louis Fighting Mad

St. Louis, July 1 (AP)—For the third straight time, the Chicago Cubs defeated the St. Louis Cardinals today to keep their slim first-place margin in the National League over the New York Giants.

Bill Lee's effective pitching and Ripper Collins' big bat combined to sweep the final game of the series, 6 to 3, as the Cardinals, fighting mad in defeat, wrangled in their characteristic manner with the umpires.

Dolly Stark, behind the plate, ordered Manager Frankie Frisch from the park after an argument over a fourth ball on Bill Jurges, Cub shortsop, in the fifth inning.

SPILLING the DOPE

BY JOHNNY INKSLINGER

Chicago Cubs' threat to do something they should have accomplished in each of the last three seasons—win the National League pennant—is something in the way of proof that first base remains a key position on a baseball club.

Charley Grimm credits Jimmy Collins with having a great deal to do with the Bruins' reformation.

The reason is that the Ripper steadied the infield.

Young Phil Cavarretta was inept at handling poor throws. Billy Herman, Billy Jurges, and Stanley Hack never were positive what would happen on hurried throws. The result was that they did not complete as many tight plays as they should have.

—O—

Now, after fielding the ball, or pivoting on a double play, they simply fire away, knowing that Collins will pick up or get his hands on the pellet some way.

Grimm has about given up on Cavarretta. Small hands handicap the boy wonder of 1935 in the field, and he no longer looks like a major league hitter. He failed dismally after a promising start in the outfield this spring.

Trained observers who have watched the Cubs daily suspect that Cavarretta would have fared better had he been given a bit of guidance by Herman.

—O—

Herman let the youngster go it alone, but the instant Hack was shifted to first base, the shouted instructions of the second baseman could be heard in the upper tiers of the stands.

Although he has not batted as consistently or as hard as he did when he topped the loop in extra base hits as a Cardinal in 1934, Collins has strengthened the Cubs' attack.

In addition to that, he is one of the finest team men in the game, and has dispelled the dissatisfaction that existed while Grimm was trying to make something of Cavarretta.

—O—

Joe Marty's arrival as a center fielder bolstered the Cubs no little, not only because they needed a middle man in the outfield, but because little Augie Galan regained his stride in left field.

Galan never has learned to play hitters, and a left fielder either does or he doesn't. Galan made the catches in center all right, but ran himself ragged in doing so.

Galan doesn't seem to be able to stand pressure.

The spark of the flag-gathering array of 1935 as leadoff man, Galan slumped frightfully when installed in the No. 3 position in the batting order, where he was expected to drive in runs. The crowd got on him.

—O—

Even Grimm, never too quick to see mistakes, eventually gets around to rectifying them, so Galan once more sets the tempo of the Cubs as leadoff man, where he belongs.

The Cubs never were more than five games out of first place while everything that possibly could have happened to them was transpiring during the first month.

With what should be their full quota of tough luck out of their systems, only Giant, Cardinal, and Pirate optimists can see how the men of Wrigley Field can miss.

BIG SCHEDULE BEING PLANNED

Golfers Have Large Week End Ahead; Blues Serve Reds

A full week-end of golfing activities has been lined up by Club Pro Cotton Leonard for members of the Escanaba Country club, Leonard said yesterday.

In order that arrangements may be completed, Leonard requests that reservations for the week-end be in by Saturday afternoon.

The first half of the twilight league was brought to a successful close Wednesday night and in a thrilling finish, the Reds, captained by Juel Lee, came out victors, two up, over the Blues of John A. Lemmer. For a time, it looked as though the two teams would end up in a tie with the prospect of a play-off match between the captains. However, fortunately for one captain—or the other—such a play-off was not necessary. As a result of their victory, the Reds were feted to a dinner at the expense of the Blues.

A "bet-a-million" tournament featured ladies day matches Wednesday, which were won by Mrs. A. R. Watson, who had a score of 20,500. Mrs. Gus Dehlin was second with 15,700 while Mrs. G. R. Stegath had high score.

Announcement was made last night of new teams for the second half of the twilight league. The Reds of Juel Lee will be composed of the following: Dehlin, Schuldes, Lemire, Frost, Brotherton, Lindsay, Pugh, Dickson, H. Gessner, Jackson, Jones, Henderson, Sullivan, Schmidt, Van de Weghe, D. Boyce, Whitfield, W. Peterson, K. Smith and Richards.

Lemmer's Blues will be: Green, Card, Watkins, Skellenger, Cass, Bennett, H. Groos, Desilets, Driscoll, Hogan, Milkovitch, Kraus, Needham, Gander, Haddock, Sullivan, McPherson, Stellwagen, Shepeck and Sutherland.

LEAGUE TITLE TO BE DECIDED

Rock Plays Hermansville Sunday; Camp Wells Drops Out

Championship of the first half of the Delta-Menominee county baseball league will be at stake at Rock on the Fourth of July when the undefeated, league leading Rock Spartans entertain second place and fast traveling Hermansville City team.

Because of other celebrations in the near vicinity, the game will begin at 12 o'clock instead of the usual time. Rock has a record of seven victories against no defeats while Hermansville, along with Bark River, is but one game behind. Both have won six and lost one. If Rock should win Sunday, they would have undisputed possession of the first half title. If they should lose, however, Hermansville would be in a tie. If Bark River should win, they too, would be in a tie.

League commissioner Henry Boyle announced yesterday that Camp Wells has dropped from the league. Managers of any teams wishing to take the place of Camp Wells should notify Boyle at Bark River immediately. Camp Wells was scheduled to entertain Perkins on Sunday.

Bark River, runner-up to Rock, meets the strong Escanaba Athletics on the local diamond Sunday. The Bark River crew will be trying hard for another win in order to tie for first place in case Rock should be defeated by Hermansville.

Nahma, recent entrant into the league, will seek its first victory in league competition at Hermansville Sunday, meeting the Dodgers. Nahma has lost its two starts to Rock and Spalding.

Spalding, other team in the league, will be idle.

Injury To Selkirk Blow To Yankees; Athletics Lose 12-7

Philadelphia, July 1. (AP)—The New York Yankees won and lost today, clubbing the Athletics for 14 hits and a 12 to 7 victory, but at the expense of an injury to their heavy-hitting outfielder, George Selkirk.

Selkirk fell hard in making a running shoetop catch of Jack Rothrock's fly in the seventh, and was taken to a hospital with an injured right shoulder. It was feared he may have fractured his collarbone.
